MARSHALL COLLEGE HUNTINGTON, WEST VIRGINIA

Coeducational, under state control and support, includes the Teachers College and the College of Arts and Sciences which offers 2 years of Engineering and courses preliminary to Law, Medicine, and Dentistry.

College was founded by a group of Virginia settlers in 1837, named Marshall Academy in honor of Chief Justice John Marshall. In 1867, it became a normal school, in 1920, a teachers college. In 1924, the academic departments were organized into a College of Arts and Sciences. The graduates in the 2 colleges are now approximately the same in number.

College is under the direction of the state board of education, consisting of state superintendent of schools, ex-officio, and 6 members appointed by the governor for 6-year terms. Fiscal affairs are handled by the state board of control.

Finances: Supported by biennial appropriations from the legislature, plus income from student fees and dormitory rentals. The expenditures for 1934-35 approximated $300,000, of which $246,873 was spent for administration and instruction. For the year 1935-36, a budget of $300,000 is prepared, with $252,000 set aside for administration and instruction.

Grounds and Buildings: The campus of 25 acres valued at $1,000,000 has 19 buildings valued at over $1,000,000. Dormitories and sorority houses accommodate about 200 girls. No halls for men except fraternity houses. Under a federal project, dormitories for men and women, including a dining hall, to be built in 1935-36 at a cost of $350,000.

Library: The James E. Morrow Library (1931), contains 30,000 volumes exclusive of documents and reports, 275 current periodicals.

Laboratories: Northcott Science Hall (1915) houses Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Botany, Geography, Geology, Home Economics, and Engineering.

Museums: College and town exhibits and traveling exhibits held in the College Museum on the lower floor of the Library.

Requirements: For Admission To College of Arts and Sciences, 15 units including 3 units of English, 2 units of Mathematics, 2 units of Foreign Language, and 1 unit of History and Science.

To Teachers College, 15 units without reference to specific subjects but requirements of a definite teacher's course must be met before graduation.

For Degree: The B. A. degree is awarded in both colleges. For this degree the requirement is 128 hours with as many quality points as hours. Proper grouping and sequence of courses is required.

General: Physical Education is required of all freshmen except those who are certified by the college physician as incapacitated by health defects. Health service includes the examination of all freshmen students at the beginning of each semester.

Degrees: The institution conferred its first degree in 1921 when 4 students completed the Teachers College course and were awarded the A. B. degree. The Arts and Sciences College conferred its first degree in 1925. The 2 colleges have conferred 210 degrees in the June and August Commencements this year and 174 Standard Normal diplomas have been issued. From 1921 until the present time, the institution has conferred 1,755 degrees.

Fees: One semester's general tuition fee of $30 includes a student athletic ticket and a subscription to the college newspaper. Out-of-state residence fee is $50 per semester. Students pay a $5 diploma fee, but no health or laboratory fees.

Rooms in the girls' dormitories cost $20 or $25 a semester and board is $4.25 a week.

The low average student expense per college year is about $350, high average, about $500.

Scholarships. Emphasis is placed on student assistance from a general student loan fund, amounting this year to $13,500.

Employment bureau: 16% of the students last year earned part or all of their expenses, totaling $31,555. This year 20% of the students are receiving assistance.

Semester session: is operated on the following plan. The first semester starts on the second Monday in September and closes the last week in January. The second semester follows immediately after the first and closes the first week in June. A summer session of 9 weeks opens the second week of June and an intersession of 3 weeks immediately follows, enrolling in 1935, 413 students.

Extension work Late afternoon and Saturday and evening classes, as well as out-of-town extension groups have been formed, which are especially helpful to teachers

MICHIGAN COLLEGE OF MINING AND TECHNOLOGY

HOUGHTON, MICHIGAN

College located in the suburban section of the Village of Houghton in the Copper Country of Northern Michigan Local mines, mills and smelters are accessible to students in connection with their study of mining, metallurgical, electrical, mechanical, and chemical processes The district offers unusual opportunities for field study in geology because of its varied and complex geological formations

State college Because of the type of training offered, the enrollment is composed largely of men Women are admitted Most of the women attending specialize in General Science or in Chemistry

College founded as the Michigan Mining School in 1885 by act of the state legislature In 1897, the name was changed to the Michigan College of Mines In 1927, state legislation broadened the curriculum to include branches of engineering other than mining and necessitated another change in name At that time, the College became the Michigan College of Mining and Technology

College governed by a board of control of 6 members appointed by the Governor of Michigan

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND APPLIED SCIENCE

EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN

State college for men and women

Established as Michigan Agricultural College by act of the Michigan Legislature of 1855, following agitation by the Michigan State Agricultural Society. Dedicated May 13, 1857, as first state institution in the U S to offer instruction in Scientific and Practical Agriculture. In 1861, legislature created the State Board of Agriculture and placed it in control of the College. Department of Mechanic Arts (later Division of Engineering) opened in 1885, and in 1896 course of study for women (now Division of Home Economics) was adopted. Division of Veterinary Science was established in 1909, Division of Applied Science in 1921, and Liberal Arts course leading to the degree of B A in 1924. The course in Business Administration was first offered in 1925, during which year the name of the school was changed to its present form. In 1927 courses in Medical Biology and Physical Education for men were added, followed in 1928 by courses in Public School Music, Hotel Administration, and Physical Education for women. The course in Police Administration was offered first in 1935.

State board of agriculture has 6 members elected by public vote, with president of College, secretary of board, and state superintendent of public instruction as ex-officio members. College has 8 divisions of instruction: Agriculture, Engineering, Home Economics, Veterinary Science, Applied Science, Liberal Arts, All-College Division, and Graduate School.

Finances: Income from federal appropriations, $368,629, state appropriations, $1,-428,626, student fees, $310,123, land-grant interest, $73,500, other sources, $61,252. Total annual expenditures year ending June 30, 1935 (budgeted), $2,256,661. Budget, 1935-36, $2,329,569.

Grounds and Buildings: East Lansing campus and farms of 1,632 acres, valued at $249,274 (1933). Experiment Station lands of 2,825 acres, valued at $149,570 (1933). Value of buildings (East Lansing), $4,775,-400 (1933). 1 residence hall for men, housing 202, 3 for women, accommodating 476.

MICHIGAN, UNIVERSITY OF ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN

Main campus in central section of Ann Arbor, 38 miles from Detroit. Hospital group east of main campus, and stadium, golf course, and other facilities for Physical Education to southwest. State Psychopathic Hospital in same city, regents of the University acting as its trustees.

State university, coeducational, publicly controlled.

Founded in Detroit, in 1817, as the "Catholepistemiad, or University of Michigan," by act of territorial legislature, placed under a board of trustees, under name "University of Michigan," in 1821, the state constitution of 1835 required the legislature to support a university, and its organization was provided for by act of March 18, 1837, soon after Michigan was admitted to the Union. An act of March 20, 1837, located the University in Ann Arbor. The supreme court of Michigan has held the present University to be the successor of the institution in Detroit. First buildings erected 1839-40, first class admitted 1841 and graduated 1845.

Governing body established by state constitution, 8 regents elected at large at spring elections, 2 every 2 years for 8-year terms, state superintendent of public instruction and president of the University ex-officio members without vote.

Schools and colleges with date of organization of each: College of Literature, Science, and the Arts (1841), College of Engineering (1895, first courses, 1855), Medical School (1850), Law School (1859), College of Pharmacy (1876, first courses, 1868), School of Dentistry (1875), Graduate School (1912), School of Education (1921, first professorship, 1879), School of Business Administration (1924), School of Forestry and Conservation (1927, first course, 1885), School of Music (1929), College of Architecture (1913, first courses, 1875-77, renewed 1906). Other divisions: Summer Session (1894), Extension Division (1911), Division of Hygiene and Public Health, Department of Military Science and Tactics, Department of Physical Education, Intramural Sports, and Intercollegiate Athletics, University Hospital and University Hospital School of Nursing, Simpson Memorial Institute of Medical Research, various bureaus and business and maintenance departments.

Finances. Chief source of income is state appropriation for current expense, based since 1867 on principal of the mill tax. Total endowment (gifts for specific purposes, not general expense), June 30, 1935, $6,612,268.18. Income from all sources, year ending June 30, 1935, includes Student fees, $1,308,458.51, state appropriations for current operations, $4,424,686.19, interest on original federal land grant, $38,386.88, income from endowments, $181,228.97, gifts and grants, $576,171.28, sales and services, $2,268,600.24, all other sources, $85,256.44, total, $8,882,788.51. Expenditures, year ending June 30, 1935, general trust funds, for current operation, $7,880,660.19, for increase in plant, $29,920.98, total, $7,910,581.17. Value of gifts and pledges announced during 1934-35 estimated at more than $527,000 exclusive of the gift, announced in 1935, from the Rackham Fund, of $2,500,000 for the land, building and its equipment, and $4,000,000 for an endowment fund for the Graduate School. The state legislature of 1935 abolished the state property tax and hence the University mill tax, but passed a law which continues the principle of basing the University's appropriation on the valuation of property, though it is paid from general funds. Total budget, 1935-36, from general funds only, $7,955,484.82.

Grounds and Buildings: Original campus, 40 acres, total lands in the city of Ann Arbor, 378 acres, elsewhere 9,759 acres, including Nichols Arboretum, Botanical Gardens, Saginaw Forest, and Eber White Woods in or near Ann Arbor, Biological Station (3,900 acres in Cheboygan County), Camp Davis (surveying at Jackson Hole, Wyoming), Edwin S. George Reserve (1,230 acres in Livingston County), Chase S. Osborn Preserve (3,100 acres in Chippewa County), and other lands for forestry or other purposes. Total value (June 30, 1935) of lands, $4,895,944.72, buildings, $26,269,701.43, land improvements, $1,633,805.25, equipment, $11,461,382.99, total, $44,260,834.39. Residence halls: For women, 7, capacity 779, for men, 2, capacity 371. The president's house, built in 1839, is the oldest University building.

Library (1919) Total volumes in all University libraries, 926,396. 4,165 periodicals and 74 newspapers received currently. Separate buildings house the William L. Clements Library of American History (1923) and the W. W. Cook Legal Research Library (1931). Important collections of American history, especially the Discovery and Revolutionary periods (in Clements Library), Greek, Coptic, Latin, and Arabic papyri (over 6,000 items), oriental manuscripts, Parsons Library of Economics, MacMillan Shakespeare collection, old English plays, Carlyle, "Robinson Crusoe" and "Gulliver's Travels," and old mathematical books.

Laboratories Chemistry building (1910), valued at $271,000, equipment, $270,000. Dentistry building (1908, addition 1922), $243,000, $165,000. East Engineering building (1923), $664,000, $360,000. West Engineering building (1904), $369,000, $515,000. East Medical building (1935), valued at $858,000, West Medical building (1901), $168,000, equipment, both Medical buildings, about $500,000. Natural Science building (1916), $408,000, $295,000. East Physics building (1924), valued at $452,000, West Physics building (1887), $64,000, equipment, both Physics laboratories, $198,000. Simpson Memorial Institute (1926), $202,000, $36,000.

Museums Building (1928), valued at $725,000, houses collections in Zoology, Anthropology, and Paleontology, and the herbarium. The Museum of Anthropology has been made by the National Research Council the depository for American Indian Ceramics. Museum of Classical Archaeology, housed in Newberry Hall, contains material from excavations at Karanis, Egypt, Seleucia, and Mesopotamia. Stearns Collection of Musical Instruments deposited in exhibition rooms of Hill Auditorium. Other collections in Mineralogy, Art, Medicine, Chemistry, and Pharmacy. The collections in all divisions of Zoology are important for research purposes, as well as those in Paleontology, Botany, Classical Archaeology, Michigan Indian Archaeology, Oriental Ceramics, Oriental Textiles of the nineteenth century, Chinese Ethnology, Musical Instruments, and Mineralogy.

Observatory (1854, with later additions) Contains 12½-inch refractor and a reflecting telescope with a 37½-inch mirror. A 27-inch refractor is in use at the Lamont-Hussey Observatory of the University of Michigan at Bloemfontein, South Africa, and at the Lake Angelus Observatory, Oakland County, Michigan, the spectroheliokinematograph is used for solar studies.

Requirements. For Admission. For colleges admitting students from high school. Graduation from an accredited secondary school, with a scholarship record well above average, with recommendation of the principal, and with 15 units as prescribed by the various colleges. Certain specifications as to major and minor sequences among 5 groups (English, Foreign Languages, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies) are to be observed, 3 units in English being required by all colleges. Admission also by examination. 15 units are required in all cases, conditions permitted to the extent of 2 units in the Colleges of Engineering, Architecture, and Pharmacy. Such deficiencies must be made up during the first year of residence without credit toward graduation. Admission to the schools (in addition to graduation from high school)—Medical School. 90 hours college credit with 1½ as many honor point as hours, including prescribed subjects. Law School Graduation from college, or 3 years' college work in combined curriculum School of Dentistry 60 hours college credit School of Education 2 years in college with at least 25% more honor points than hours School of Business Administration Bachelor's degree, or 3 years of college work in combined curriculum. Graduate School Graduation from college.

For Degree Minimum residence requirement is that final year is to be spent in exclusive residence (last 2 years in the Medical School, 2 out of 3 years in Law School) English is a general requirement in undergraduate courses Other requirements College of Literature, Science, and the Arts, A B., B S., B S. Scholarships: Limited number University Fellowships, $350 to $600 stipend, State College Fellowships (one from each college in Michigan), $300 to $400, about 20 University Scholarships in the Graduate School (amounting to exemption from fees) for residents of Michigan graduating from the undergraduate courses in the University A limited number of endowed fellowships, various stipends Applications should be made before March 1 Undergraduate scholarships include Michigan Alumni Undergraduate Scholarships for entering freshmen recommended by alumni and alumnae clubs in the state and appointed by the regents The number of scholarships provided is limited and in most cases scholarships are assigned to students who have been in residence 1 or 2 years An important scholarship endowment is the Levi L. Barbour Fund for scholarships for girls from Oriental countries

Research funds Donated, expendable for various purposes, amounted to $1,543,553 85 from 1817 to 1931 Since that time important grants have been received for the work on the Middle English Dictionary and Early Modern English Dictionary, Excavations in Egypt, research in nutrition, drug addiction, and various other problems. The University provides in the annual budget a research fund which is assigned through the Graduate School. An endowment appraised in 1932 at $8,711,116 was left by the late William W. Cook of New York, an alumnus, the income of which is available for research and other purposes in the field of law.

Employment bureaus for men and women students are maintained. Nearly 53% of the students earn part or all of their expenses. A bureau of appointments and occupational information deals with the placement of graduates as teachers and in other positions.

First semester usually begins last Monday in September and Commencement day is 38 weeks later.

Summer session begins Monday after commencement and continues for 8 weeks in most divisions (10 weeks in Law, 6 weeks in Medicine and some courses in Education). Enrollment, 4,066 in 1935.

Extension division students numbered 2,224 in 1934-35. 7 students enrolled in correspondence courses, newly organized.

Publications. The Official Publication includes bulletin of general information, list of scholarships, fellowships, prizes and loan funds, announcements of schools and colleges, and register of staff and graduates, which are bound together as the General Register, also President's Report, financial report, announcements of special curricula, and other bulletins. The Alumni Association publishes The Michigan Alumnus (4 quarterly review numbers, weekly in October and November, fortnightly through the college year, monthly July to September). Several series of scholarly publications are issued through the University of Michigan Press, including the Humanistic Series, Scientific Series, University of Michigan Publications in Language and Literature, History and Political Science, Fine Arts, and Law.

During 1934-35 a general revision of admission requirements was enacted by faculty action. An Institute of Health and Social Sciences was established, with headquarters in Detroit. A chair of Industrial Relations was founded. The action of the legislature in maintaining the policy of supporting the University by continuing appropriations was of major importance. In September, 1935, a gift of $6,500,000 from the Rackham Fund for the benefit of the Graduate School was received.

(4) Arts and Interior Architecture 4 years, Bachelor of Interior Architecture.

First 2 years in Science, Literature, and Arts followed by 2 years in Engineering (5) Course in Training for Medical Technicians 4 years including 2 years Pre-Medical course and 2 years in the Medical School leading to B S. degree from Medical School

College of Engineering and Architecture and School of Chemistry Curricula leading to B S degree 4 years of study in Aeronautical, Civil, Electrical, Mechanical, Agricultural Engineering (in cooperation with the College of Agriculture), Architecture (5 years), Landscape Architecture, Interior Architecture School of Chemistry offers professional 4-year course in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering Curricula leading to professional degrees Aeronautical, Agricultural, Architectural, Chemical, Civil, Electrical or Mechanical Engineer conferred on those who have received the bachelor's degree in the corresponding field of engineering when they have completed the equivalent of one additional year's college work, 4 years of engineering experience in positions of responsibility and have presented a satisfactory thesis Combined Curricula (degrees specified) Engineering Pre-Business Course First 2 years in Engineering followed by 2 years in School of Business, B B A degree, 5 years leads to B B A degree at end of fifth year after having also completed the Engineering Course for bachelor's degree

College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics Curricula leading to B S or equivalent 4-year course in Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics The experiment station offers some research advantages to students taking work in Graduate School Agricultural extension service

Graduate and Professional Schools Law School Course leading to degrees of Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Science in Law 2 years of college work and 4 years in Law School gives a degree of LL B Law School offers an opportunity for a course leading to degree of Master of Laws under direction of the Graduate School Medical School. 7 years leading to Doctor of Medicine. 2 years of Pre-Medical work in Science, Literature and Arts or equivalent, followed by 4 years in Medical School lead to degree of Bachelor of Medicine. A further year as intern in an approved hospital grants degree of M D. School of Nursing 3 years leading to degree of Graduate in Nursing. Combined 5-year course in Arts and Nursing offered by College of Education and School of Nursing leads to B S and Graduate in Nursing. School of Dentistry 3 years leading to D D S, prerequisite completion of 2 years of Pre-Dental work. Dental Hygienists 2 year's work in School of Dentistry leads to degree of Graduate Dental Hygienist. School of Mines and Metallurgy Mining Engineering (specializing in Geology), Petroleum Engineering, and Metallurgy, leading to degree of Engineer of Mines in Petroleum, and Metallurgical Engineer, regular 4-year courses. College of Pharmacy 4 years leading to degree of B S in Pharmacy. Courses leading to the degrees of Master of Science in Pharmacy and Doctor of Philosophy may be taken under direction of Graduate School. College of Education 2, 4, and 5-year curricula leading to a B S degree and a teacher's certificate from Minnesota State Department of Education. School of Business Administration 2-year course beginning with junior year leading to a degree of Bachelor of Business Administration. Graduate School Graduate work in Medicine is maintained jointly by the Medical School and Mayo Foundation for Medical Educational Research. The degrees of B S (or equivalent) and M D and 1 year of intern service in an acceptable hospital are prerequisites for admission to the clinical departments. Properly qualified College students may be admitted to the medical laboratory departments (Anatomy, Physiology, Bacteriology, Biophysics, Pharmacology, and Pathology) without the medical degree and internship. These courses cover a period of 3 years and lead to the degree of M S or of Ph D in the various fields. Graduate work in certain problems related to Dentistry. Clinical material and opportunities to supplement this research are available from the Dental Clinic, Medical Dispensary, and the University of Minnesota Hospitals. University College The satisfactory completion of an approved curriculum entitles the student to the degree of B A or B S General College. 2-year course leading to the degree of Associate in Arts.

MONTANA STATE UNIVERSITY MISSOULA, MONTANA

State university, coeducational

Established by act of state legislature,
1893 Opened, 1895

Governed by state board of education, which consists of the governor, attorney general, and state superintendent of public instruction, and 8 members appointed by governor for 4-year terms. This board controls the institutions of higher education and the eleemosynary institutions of the state. The Montana State University at Missoula, State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Bozeman, State School of Mines at Butte, State Normal College at Dillon, Eastern Montana Normal School at Billings, and Northern Montana College at Havre, are organized as the University of Montana. The office of the executive secretary is at the state capitol in Helena. The state board of examiners, consisting of the governor, attorney general, and secretary of state, have some control of certain expenditures. The president of the University and 2 members appointed by the governor compose the executive board, which has immediate supervision of the institution, subject to direction of state board of education and state board of examiners. The University is organized into 27 schools and departments of instruction.

Finances. The State University shares in the income from a $2\frac{1}{2}$ mill tax levy for the 6 institutions comprised in the University of Montana, appropriations to each institution being made by the legislature. The State University is beneficiary of the federal land-grant of 1881, the annual income being approximately \$20,000. The W. W. Dixon Law Endowment yields about \$5,000 annually and the J. H. T. Ryman Economics endowment about \$1,000 annually. The total expenditures for operation and maintenance, not including dormitories and student activities, 1934-35, \$400,000. Budget, 1935-36, \$425,000.

Grounds and Buildings. Campus of approximately 100 acres. In addition the University owns 520 acres on Mt. Sentinel immediately adjoining the campus, and 168 acres on Flathead Lake used for a biological station. Total value of grounds, $278,715.70. Total present worth of buildings, $1,920,000. Total value of grounds, buildings, and equipment, $2,745,200. 2 residence halls for freshman men and women accommodating 262, and 1 for upper class women accommodating 83.

Library (1923) 225,000 volumes, including 25,000 government documents, 700 current periodicals. Special collections in Northwest History.

Laboratories. For Chemistry, Biology, Botany, Geology, Physics, Pharmacy, Forestry, and Home Economics housed in various buildings. Equipment valued at $68,446.87.

Requirements. For Admission. High school graduation and 15 units, including English, 3, U. S. History and Government, 1, 3 other units from each of 4 of the following groups: (a) Mathematics, (b) History and Social Science, (c) Laboratory Science, (d) Foreign Languages. A student not a high school graduate may be admitted conditionally on 15 entrance units, if he has attended high school 4 years, and is recommended by his high school principal. Entrance deficiency of 1 unit must be removed within 1 year. For admission to Law School 2 years of college work, with grade points equaling his credits.

For Degree. Students in College of Arts and Sciences receive the B. A. degree on completion of 186 credits, including 6 credits in English Composition, 0-25 in Foreign Languages (depending upon high school language), 12 in Science or Mathematics, 8 in Social Science, 8 in Literature or Philosophy, 6 in Physical Education, 6 in Military Science, and 40-65 in the major department. Beginning with the Class of 1937 a student whose average for 4 years is greater than "3" cannot receive a degree In our marking system "1" is high, "4" low, and "6" failing, with intermediate grades of "2" and "3"

Students having an average of 1 80 or better in any year receive class honors for the year, provided the normal load has been carried Students having a like average for the 4 years are recommended for general honors at graduation

Superior students may be recommended for graduation with distinction in the work of a department provided they have obtained permission from the department to work for this honor and provided they have conformed to the regulations of the department. Such regulations must have been adopted by the department and approved by the faculty upon the recommendation of the committee on honors work. Students may obtain distinction in 1 major field only, and exclusively in such departments as are not offering courses in reading for honors.

Reading for honors has been established in recognition of the fact that there are in the student body a certain number who are capable of more and better work than can be required of them under the present conditions of classroom instruction. In order that these students may have a fuller opportunity to develop, they are to be placed upon their own responsibility over a long period of time, during which their work will be done under the supervision of a member of the department in which they elect to read for honors. Each department offering honors work will lay out a course of study of at least 2 years' duration, the aim of which will be to give the student a thorough comprehension of a field of knowledge, but not to train the student in graduate or research work. General supervision of honors work is exercised by the committee on honors work, which with the approval of the faculty has made certain regulations under which all honors curricula are carried on.

General Students not residing at home with parents are required to live in the college dormitories. Physical Education is required 4 years. Chapel service twice weekly, attendance required. Voluntary attendance at Sunday services in Chapel.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK

University, non-sectarian, coeducational, privately controlled by a self-perpetuating council It receives no financial support from the state or the city, but derives its income from private endowment, gifts and bequests, and fees paid by students

New York University was chartered by the New York State Legislature, in 1831 Instruction in Liberal Arts began in 1832, in Clinton Hall, at the corner of Nassau and Beekman Streets The site of the present main building on Washington Square was acquired in 1833 One of the earliest professorships was that in Fine Arts, held by Samuel F B Morse, who, during the period of his membership in the faculty, accomplished the invention, in the old Washington Square building, of the electric telegraph Associated with Professor Morse in these experiments was John W Draper, professor of Chemistry, who was the first to photograph by the light of the sun the human countenance

School of Law, 1835, founded on plan for legal education drawn by Benjamin F Butler In 1895 the Metropolis Law School was absorbed, as an evening division College of Medicine organized in 1839 In 1898 Bellevue Hospital Medical College merged with the older Medical College, the enlarged College occupying quarters in East 26th Street which have continued to be the medical center of the University Courses and degrees in Engineering first given in 1862, though a separate faculty of Engineering was not set up until 1899 At that time, the original "University College" was reorganized into the existing Colleges of Arts and Pure Science, and Engineering They are now accommodated on the campus at University Heights, which was acquired by purchase and gift, beginning in 1891 In 1886 Graduate School organized, in 1890, the School of Education, the first of its kind to be established on the same plane as the professional schools of Law, Medicine, and Theology In 1899 the University took over 2 existing veterinary schools The Veterinary College thus formed was suspended in 1922 for lack of finances

Hall of Fame for Great Americans, consisting of a massive colonnade on the University Heights campus overlooking the Harlem and Hudson Rivers, contains the bronze effigies of 69 celebrated American men and women, with provision for additions to the list of those commemorated every 5 years This American pantheon was established in 1900 School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance organized in 1900 A division of the School was set up in the Wall Street district in 1914, and out of the latter was established (1920) the Graduate School of Business Administration The School of Retailing, another offspring of the School of Commerce, was created, after a 2-year preliminary development, in 1921

In 1903, after removal of "University College" to University Heights, a "collegiate division" was formed at Washington Square In 1913, it developed into Washington Square College That Liberal Arts College with classes day and evening, has an enrollment of some 5,500 students In 1925, the University took over the New York College of Dentistry The Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics was established in 1925, as part of the College of Engineering The College of Fine Arts, organized in 1922, with departments of Architecture, Dramatics, Music, and Art History and Appreciation as well as courses in Applied Arts, was reorganized in 1935, all of the departments except Architecture and related subjects being assigned to other undergraduate and graduate divisions, with the former set up as the School of Architecture and Allied Arts

The summer school courses established in 1895 were reorganized as summer sessions of the several September-June divisions in 1933 The practical effect of this change was the discontinuance of the summer session as an independent unit and the adoption of summer term programs as integral parts of the offerings of the other schools and colleges of the University In 1934 all of the extension activities of the University, including the work of the Extension Division (organized in 1904) and that of the Institute of Education (organized for the training of teachers-in-service in 1924) was consolidated, with an augmented program in Adult Education, as the Division of General Education In September 1935, the University established a new center for liberal arts education at Hempstead, Long Island, known as the Nassau College-Hofstra Memorial of New York University, the program consisting of a 2-year liberal arts curriculum, and evening courses in commercial, teachers training, and adult education subjects

The governing council is a self-perpetuating board of 32 members

Research Fine Arts endowment of $50,000, the gift of the Carnegie Corporation in 1925, the income of which ($1,750) is used for research and related departmental purposes. The fund for the establishment of the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics (1925) included a capital sum of $275,000, the income of which is to be used for teaching and research in the field of aeronautical engineering. The medical departments have an endowment of $270,000, the income of which is available for teaching and research in medical subjects. In addition, special gifts to these and other departments have made possible a number of research activities relating to pneumonia, pediatrics, rheumatic fever, bacteriology, anemia, diabetes, tuberculosis, therapeutics, preventive medicine, cancer, neurology, poliomyelitis, adult education, and social service. In 1933-34, $72,625.20 was received for these purposes and in 1934-35, $78,883.49. A permanent Commission on Graduate Work is charged with the integration, coordination, and development of graduate studies. The results of research in the University are reported in the annual volume of University bibliography published under the direction of the Secretary of the University.

The statistics of the employment offices of the University show that during the year 1934-35, 2,298 placements were made, with the earnings of those so placed aggregating over $670,000.

Terms and vacations. The following schools have only 1 term extending from September to June: School of Law, College of Dentistry, College of Medicine, and Graduate School. No new students are admitted to these schools in the middle of the year. The University College, the College of Engineering, and the Washington Square College maintain a February to September term, offering the opportunity of completing a year's work before the opening of the next year in September. There is a short vacation period in June. All other schools offer a limited number of courses to new students entering the second term. The fall term of the year 1935-36 opened September 24. The University Commencement Convocation (all schools) Wednesday, June 10, 1936.

The 12-weeks summer session opened June

College sessions begin third Monday in September and end June 15.

Summer sessions, for freshmen only, June 15 to August 29. Enrollment in 1935, 34.

Catalog published in December and May. Recent achievement. Chemical Engineering Laboratory. During the last college year, the College has inaugurated and put in operation the initial equipment for a Chemical Engineering Laboratory. The purpose is for instruction in the unit processes of chemical engineering as distinguished from the older type of industrial chemistry.

The distilling column has 23 plates, 10 inches in diameter, with a very complete system of piping connections and instruments, which will permit a wide variety of applications. The design is arranged to afford studies in the vaporization process, the flow of gases and liquids and heat transmission. It is estimated that a group of 4 students will be able to occupy themselves for ten 3-hour periods.

The evaporator has a capacity of evaporating 1,000 pounds of water per hour. Both natural and forced circulation are possible. A wide variety of velocities is possible.

The drier is arranged for work on a moderate scale and has facilities for conditioning the air used in the drying process.

As in the case of the still, both the drier and evaporator are provided with a complete set of instruments. All factors in the operation of these units are both under control and capable of measurement.

Administrative Officers: President, Allan R. Cullimore, Dean, James A. Bradley.

Admission Requirements Liberal Arts 15 units Those certified to rank in upper half of their high school classes are usually admitted without examinations Others must take special aptitude and proficiency tests Graduates of approved secondary schools whose records show exceptional ability may be admitted without regard to specific subject requirements All others must present 15 units of work including the following 3 units of English, 2 of Mathematics, 2 of 1 Foreign Language, and a total of at least 12 units in such subjects as English, Foreign Language, Mathematics, Natural Science, History and other Social Sciences. High quality of preparatory work is counted as more important in determining admission than is the presentation of mere credits in approved subjects. Students transferring from other colleges and universities must present records at least as high as the standard required for graduation. On entrance all students are required to take scholastic aptitude tests, the results of which are used for placement and other administrative purposes.

Medical School I The candidate must be of good moral character as evidenced by certificates signed by 2 physicians of good standing in the state in which the candidate last resided. II He must have credit for 3 years of work in an approved college or university following the completion of an accredited high school course or its equivalent. III He must have completed in those 3 years of work in an approved college at least 90 semester hours and the schedule of his work must have included not less than a year each in (a) Chemistry, comprising general Inorganic Chemistry and Organic Chemistry, (b) General Physics, (c) Zoology, including comparative anatomy of vertebrates, 6 semester hours, (d) English, and (e) French or German. IV Applicant for admission from another medical school must present a letter of honorable dismissal with official credentials. V Admission to the fourth-year class is by special action of the faculty, and usually is granted only to graduates in Medicine.

Law School Proof of satisfactory completion of 3 years' study in an approved college admits to 4-year curriculum. College graduation admits to 3-year curriculum.

Engineering School Candidates must qualify by certificate on 15 units of high school work and must rank in the upper three-fourths of their graduating class. The credits must be distributed as follows: Group A, $5\frac{1}{2}$ units (English, 3, Algebra, $1\frac{1}{2}$, Plane Geometry, 1), Group B, $6\frac{1}{2}$ units (Languages, Solid Geometry, Plane Trigonometry, College Algebra, Science, History, Civics, Mechanical or Architectural Drawing, Shopwork, not more than 2 units of subject), Group C, 3 units (Political Economy, Commercial Law or Geography, Social Studies, Drawing, Accounting, Bookkeeping, Industrial History, $\frac{1}{2}$ unit or more).

Dental School Graduation from high school for admission to the 5-year Dental Course, which includes 1 year of college. 1 year of college is required for admission to the 4-year Dental Course. Candidates may be accepted on presentation of 15 units from an accredited high school or academy, which shall include English, 3 units, Algebra, 1, Geometry, 1, Physics, 1, and 30 semester hours in the College of Liberal Arts, which shall include 6 semester hours of English, 6 of Chemistry, and 6 of Biology.

Music School Entrance requirements to the full course in School of Music are equal to those enforced in the College of Liberal Arts, but vary in detail according to the student's major work.

Commerce School Credit of 60 semester hours in an approved college, university, or scientific school. These credits should include 1 year of English, 1 of Laboratory Science, course in elements of Economics, Money and Banking. Specific requirements must be satisfied in first year of residence.

Journalism School Same as School of Commerce.

Speech School 15 units, including English, 3, Algebra, 1, Plane Geometry, 1, Foreign Language, 2. No entrance conditions allowed. Candidates who rank in the lower half of their high school class are admitted on probation only by special permission of the faculty.

Graduate School Admission to the Graduate School may be granted to graduates of institutions whose requirements for the bachelor's degree are the substantial equivalent of a B.A. or B.S. of Northwestern University, and to graduates of other institutions approved by the Graduate Board. Certificate of character and qualifications. Admission to the rank of graduate student does not imply candidacy for an advanced degree in any stated time, and such candidacy can only be determined after a consideration of the individual's merits, and after the student has demonstrated that he has the ability to do major work of graduate character. A mere accumulation of credits is not sufficient.

Degree Requirements: Graduate School Masters' degrees 24 semester hours of resident graduate work, requirement of thesis optional with departments. Doctor of Philosophy 3 years of graduate study of which 2 years ordinarily will be spent in residence and the presentation of a dissertation, which gives evidence of original and significant investigations.

College of Liberal Arts 120 semester hours, certain specific requirements and a field of concentration. No work of D grade may be counted toward the field of concentration.

Medical School Prescribed courses for 4 years together with a satisfactory internship occupying 12 months in a hospital approved by the faculty.

Law School For J. D., 4 academic years, 36 months of resident study, and 104 semester hours of credit for students who have satisfactorily completed 3 years of study in an approved college, or 3 academic years (27 months) of resident study and 84 semester hours of credit for students holding, at the time of admission, a bachelor's degree in Arts and Sciences.

Engineering School Electrical Engineer 5 years in Electrical Engineering plus 8 hours of approved summer work or 4 hours of summer work plus 4 hours of summer surveying. Mechanical Engineer 5-year course in Mechanical Engineering plus 8 hours of approved summer work, or 4 hours of summer work plus 4 hours of summer surveying. Civil Engineer 5-year curriculum in Civil Engineering plus 4 hours of approved summer work plus 4 hours summer surveying. Industrial Engineer 5-year course in Engineering plus 8 hours of approved summer work, or 4 hours of summer surveying, provided 160 semester hours required in any curriculum have included as requirements or electives approximately 32 hours of work in Commerce and

Department of Economics B.S. in Engineering 4-year curriculum with minimum of 124 credit hours, plus 6 hours of approved summer work.

Dental School 4 years, required clinical and laboratory work. Must be of fit moral character and 21 years of age.

Music School For Bachelor of Music not less than 124 semester hours. For Bachelor of Music in Education not less than 124, and for Master of Music not less than 150. Of this students must have completed a minimum of 30 semester hours in residence in the School of Music.

Commerce School For B.S. in Commerce, 120 semester hours with 60 in commercial subjects. No student is graduated if more than 10% of his work is below the grade of C. The candidate for the degree must present acceptable evidence of at least 3 months' satisfactory service in a business concern.

Journalism School 120 semester hours with 30 in strictly journalistic subjects, and 35 in Social Sciences. No student is graduated if more than 10% of his work is below the grade of C.

Speech School Bachelor of Science in Speech, 120 semester hours with 60 in the College of Liberal Arts and 60 in the School of Speech.

Education School Bachelor of Science in Education, 120 semester hours of which 30 must be completed in the School of Education. Master of Science in Education, a minimum resident requirement of an additional 24 semester hours.

General Requirements Men students not living in their own homes are required to live in dormitories or fraternity houses unless given permission to live elsewhere for sufficient cause. Women students not living in their own homes are required to room in college halls or houses unless special exemption is granted.

OREGON STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

CORVALLIS, OREGON

Main campus near the city center of Corvallis. Farms and experimental plots at Corvallis, arboretum and forest lands near Corvallis and elsewhere in the state, 9 branch experiment stations in the several distinctive agricultural regions of the state. General extension division including Portland extension center (all state-supported institutions of higher education) Federal cooperative extension in agriculture and home economics throughout the state.

State college for men and women, the federal land-grant institution of Oregon, the authorized center of scientific and technical education in the State System of Higher Education (See note on Oregon State System of Higher Education, page 725.)

Founded 1868. Corvallis College, incorporated in 1858 by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was "designated and adopted" in 1868 by the Oregon State Legislature as the state's agricultural college and the recipient of the land-grant funds provided in the federal act of 1862. State control became complete in 1885. The first class was graduated in 1870.

The College is organized as follows: Graduate Division, Lower Division of Liberal Arts and Sciences, School of Science, School of Agriculture, School of Education, School of Engineering and Industrial Arts, School of Forestry, School of Home Economics, School of Pharmacy, Department of Secretarial Science, Non-major Divisions, offering lower division and service work.

Finances: Endowment, $222,268, income from endowment, $11,394. Income from other sources: State appropriations and millage taxes, $907,244, federal appropriations, $547,957, county appropriations, $89,669, student fees, $180,815, other sources, $15,062. Total annual expenditures year ending June 30, 1935, $1,737,428.

Grounds and Buildings: Campus, 189 acres, farm and experiment station lands at or near Corvallis, 510 acres, arboretum and forest lands at Corvallis and elsewhere in the state, 4,579 acres. Including lands at branch experiment stations, the total land owned is 5,918 acres. In addition, 2,102 acres are under lease. Total value of lands owned, $615,160, total value of buildings and equipment, $6,037,309 (Memorial Union not included, value $615,764). Residence halls: 2, accommodating 401 women, 5, accommodating 340 men. Administration, oldest building now in use, built 1889. Notable architecturally are the Library, built 1918, the Memorial Union, campus center, built 1928, and the Women's Building, built 1927. The Physics Building (1928) houses Radio Station KOAC.

NOTE Oregon State System of Higher Education The Oregon State System of Higher Education, as organized in 1932 by the State Board of Higher Education following a federal survey of higher education in Oregon, includes all the state-supported institutions of higher learning. The several institutions, located at six different places in the state, are now elements in an articulated system, parts of an integrated whole. The educational program is organized to distribute as widely as possible throughout the state the opportunities for general education and to center on a particular campus specialized technical and professional curricula closely related to one another.

The institutions comprising the State System of Higher Education include the University of Oregon at Eugene, Oregon State Agricultural College at Corvallis, the University of Oregon Medical School at Portland, the Oregon Normal School at Monmouth, the Southern Oregon Normal School at Ashland, and the Eastern Oregon Normal School at La Grande.

Except at the Medical School, which is on a graduate basis, each institution provides the general and disciplinary studies essential to a well-rounded education. At the three normal schools these general studies are combined with teacher training in 2-year professional curricula, with special provision at the Southern and the Eastern Oregon Normal Schools for junior college privileges. At both the University and the State College, the Lower Division provides 2 years of unspecialized work in liberal arts and sciences.

Specialized education, including related professional and technical training, is concentrated on a single campus, as follows. At the State College, Biological and Physical Sciences and Mathematics, and their application in professional and technical curricula, at the University, Arts and Letters and the Social Sciences, and the professional curricula based upon them, at the Medical School, professional medical and nursing education, at the 3 normal schools, professional training for teaching in elementary schools.

Graduate work at the State College, placed in 1910 under a special faculty committee, is now administered as a coordinate part of the Graduate Division of the State System. The same graduate dean serves at both the University and the State College. At the 1935 Commencement the first Ph.D. degrees were conferred—1 in Chemistry, 1 in Physics, 1 in Soils, and 1 in Zoology.

The Extension Division was organized in 1932 as a separate division with an annual budget of $67,000. General Extension Division enrollment, 1934-35 for all state institutions of higher education. In extension classes, 2,314, in correspondence work, 1,062, total, 3,376. Division of Federal Cooperative Extension carries on the state-wide extension program in Agriculture and Home Economics. Publications of the Extension Division include the bulletin series, the circular series, and the mimeograph series.

The administrative officers of the centralized organization of the State System comprise the administrative group under the immediate direction of the Chancellor, Frederick M. Requirements: For Admission 15 units in required or elective subjects depending on which of the 42 courses of study the prospective student proposes to follow. No conditions allowed Admission on certificate from applicants in upper two-fifths of class in accredited preparatory or high schools. Applicants graduated in lower three-fifths of high school class required to take a college aptitude test. Transfer students required to meet entrance requirements and to submit their records to the college examiner for evaluation.

For Degree The following 42 undergraduate curricula lead to the degree of B S or, where starred, to the degree of B A. Either degree is obtainable in the curriculum in Education. The curricula: Agricultural Biochemistry, Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Education, Agricultural Engineering, Agronomy, Animal Husbandry, Architectural Engineering, Architecture, *Arts and Letters, Botany, Ceramics, Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, *Commerce and Finance, Dairy Husbandry, *Education, Electrical Engineering, Electrochemical Engineering, Forestry, Fuel Technology, Geology, Home Economics, Horticulture, Industrial Education, Industrial Engineering, *Journalism, Landscape Architecture, Mechanical Engineering, Metallurgy, Mining Engineering, Music Education, Nature Education, Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering, Physics, Physical Education, Poultry Husbandry, Pre-Medical, Pre-Veterinary, Sanitary Engineering, Science, and Zoology and Entomology.

Each curriculum is definitely outlined, including required and elective subjects. Students must have grade points equal in number to the credits required for the degree. Highest honors are conferred upon the upper 15% of the graduating class, first honors going to the top 5%, second honors to the following 10%. This system will give way in 1935-36 to a plan whereby highest honors, without the designation first or second, will be conferred upon all who attain a certain high average.

Advanced degrees of M.A., M.S., M.Ed., and Ph.D. are given only for work done in residence. Technical degrees, such as C.E., M.E., Ind.E., E.E., Met.E., and E.M., are conferred only on graduates of the College on the basis of professional work and the submission of a thesis. The bachelor's degree or its equivalent from an accredited school or university is required for admission to the Graduate School. Admission is through the office of the college examiner. Further details about the requirements for the several graduate degrees are contained in an announcement which may be obtained on request to the Dean of the Graduate School.

General Military Science required of first and second year students, with certain few exceptions, 2 years' work in Physical Education ordinarily required for graduation, chapel attendance voluntary.

Requirements. For Admission Students may be admitted in 1 of the following ways. Plan A Candidates seeking admission under this plan must take examinations in a sufficient number of subjects to make up a complete set of admission requirements aggregating 15 units, either the examinations of the College Entrance Examination Board of New York, the Regents examinations of New York State, or the examinations of the Catholic University given to affiliated schools.

Plan B Candidates seeking admission under this plan are required to present 2 kinds of evidence: 1 Evidence submitted by the school consisting of (a) a school report covering the entire record of subjects and grades for 4 years, (b) a statement from the school principal including an estimate of the applicant's scholarly interest, special ability, and character. 2 Evidence submitted by the candidate consisting of 4 comprehensive examinations given by the College Entrance Examination Board of New York in June. One examination is to be selected from each of the following groups: (a) English or History, selected by the applicant, (b) a Foreign Language, selected by the applicant, (c) Mathematics, or Chemistry, or Physics selected by the applicant, (d) a fourth subject designated by the applicant from the list of subjects offered for admission. These 4 examinations must be taken at one time. At least 2 examinations must cover more than 2 admission units each. To accommodate candidates who did not take the College Entrance Board Examinations in June, 4 comprehensive examinations, of which at least 2 must cover more than 2 admission units each, selected from the following groups, will be held at Regis College in September: (1) English, (2) a Foreign Language, selected by the applicant, (3) Mathematics, or Chemistry, or Physics, selected by the applicant, (4) a fourth subject selected by the applicant from the subjects which may be offered for admission and approved by the Board of Admission of Regis College. A candidate who has completed in regular course a program of study in a good secondary school which satisfies in general the requirements for admission under Plan B may, if recommended by her school, be admitted without examinations, provided she has ranked in scholarship in the last 2 years of her school course in the highest seventh of the girls in a graduating class containing at least 7 girls.

For Degree 132 semester hours, 48 semester hours in 1 field of concentration, of which a major of 30 semester hours shall be in 1 subject, and 18 semester hours shall be in courses related to the major. These related courses must be pursued through sophomore, junior, and senior years. All students are required to pass a general examination in a major subject, in addition to the regular course examinations, in the year of their candidacy for the B.A. degree.

General 2 years of Physical Education required. Chapel attendance required on Sunday.

RENSSELAER POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE

TROY, NEW YORK

Located near industrial center, famous for iron and steel industries, instrument works, valve works, and bell foundries.

School of Engineering, Science, Architecture and Business Administration, privately endowed, for men.

Established in 1824 by Stephen Van Rensselaer, of Albany, and now the oldest institution of higher learning in any English-speaking country that has devoted itself continuously to instruction and research in science and engineering. Chartered by legislature of the State of New York in 1826. Between 1826 and 1834 it conferred the traditional academic degrees of B.A. and M.A. In 1835, however, it conferred the first degrees in science and the first degrees in engineering granted in any English-speaking country. In 1850, through the influence of the Director, B. Franklin Greene, it was reorganized as a general polytechnic institute. Since that time the range of its work has been consistently enlarged until today it embraces not only the major branches of engineering and science but also architecture and business administration, which complete the round of studies proposed by Greene in his epoch-making Report.

Board of trustees, 25 members, 3 of whom are elected by the alumni to serve for 3-year terms, mayor of Troy, ex-officio, prudential committee of 4 members of the board, finance committee of 4 members of board.

Graduate departments, undergraduate departments in Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Aeronautical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Metallurgical Engineering, Chemical Engineering, and Industrial Engineering, Arts, Science, and Business Administration, Architecture.

RICE INSTITUTE HOUSTON, TEXAS

College of liberal arts and sciences for men and women, with schools of Engineering and Architecture, and provisions for postgraduate work in Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, and Modern Languages. Privately controlled, independent of church or state affiliation.

Founded in 1891 by the late William March Rice, and chartered in 1891, by the State of Texas as William M. Rice Institute for the Advancement of Literature, Science, and Art. Opened in 1912.

Self-perpetuating board of 7 trustees elected for life.

Finances: Endowment, in excess of $11,000,000, income from endowment, in excess of $600,000, income from student fees, $68,000. Total annual expenditures year ending June 30, 1935, in excess of $400,000. Budget, 1935-36, in excess of $450,000.

Grounds and Buildings: 300 acres valued at $600,000 with improvements. Present value of buildings, $2,400,000. 4 residence halls, accommodating 356 men.

Library 122,150 volumes, approximately 4,000 volumes of government documents, 600 current periodicals. Special collections: 46,000 volumes of back files of serial publications of learned societies, other periodicals.

Laboratories. Engineering (1912), present worth, $240,000, value of equipment, $375,000. Physics (1914), housing also Biology, $400,000, $160,000. Chemistry (1925), housing also Architecture and Psychology, $625,000, $190,000.

Requirements: For Admission 15 units, including English, 3, Mathematics, 3, History, 2, 3 in one Foreign Language, or 2 in each of two Foreign Languages. No conditions allowed, no special students admitted. Admission is competitive, the freshman class being limited to 400 members, who in recent years have been selected from twice as many applicants.

For Degree. For the bachelor's degree there are required five 3-hour courses in each of the first 2 years, four 3-hour advanced courses in each of the last 2 years. Laboratory work is not counted as a part of lecture or recitation requirements for a degree. The year is the unit of all courses. The choice of elective courses is restricted in the following ways. First, with respect to concentration, each of 2 subjects must be carried for 3 years, each of 4 subjects must be carried for at least 2 years, second, with respect to distribution, all subjects of the curriculum are divided into 2 groups, 1 of which includes Mathematics and Science, and the other the literary subjects, 1 course must be selected in each group in each of the first 3 years. Honors courses were instituted in the original program of studies. At present such courses are available in Biology, Chemistry, Economics and Mathematics, English, History, Pure and Applied Mathematics, Modern Languages and Literatures, Philosophy, Physical Sciences, and Theoretical and Experimental Physics. A student who has completed a general or honors course for the B.A. degree may be admitted as a candidate for an advanced degree. In the curriculum of the 5-year courses of Architecture and of Engineering, the first 2 years consist largely of required subjects. Candidates who have completed the first 4 years receive in Architecture the degree of A.B., and in Engineering the degree of B.S. in a specified branch of Engineering, and the successful completion of the 5-year course leads in Architecture to the degree of B.S. in Architecture, and in Engineering to the degree of Ch E, C E, E E, or M E, according to the branch of Engineering taken. Under requirements conforming to those for the M A degree, namely, high standing and a thesis, the M S degree in a specified branch of Engineering may be awarded For the award of the doctor's degree in Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, or Biology, a minimum of 3 years of residence is required together with high standing, the completion of a good dissertation, and the passing of a public oral examination

SCRIPPS COLLEGE CLAREMONT, CALIFORNIA

A liberal arts college for women, privately controlled

Founded in 1926, through the initial benefactions of Miss Ellen Browning Scripps of La Jolla, California, in whose honor the college was named Miss Scripps's interest was not simply in establishing another college for women, but in encouraging a form of collegiate organization after the manner of English universities, of which the new college would form one unit

The board of trustees has 24 members representing a number of denominations and vocational interests, elected for five-year terms

Finances: In 1935 the assets of the college totaled $2,582,979, of which $702,574 was permanent endowment and $1,765,652 buildings and grounds The budget for the year 1935-36 provides for $172,171, of which approximately 30% is income from endowment and from income-producing buildings

Grounds and Buildings. College campus of 20 acres, including a 6-acre athletic park The college buildings include 4 residence halls each accommodating 50 students, an academic hall which houses class rooms, lecture halls, and faculty and administration offices, a library containing twenty thousand volumes, an art studio building, an outdoor swimming pool with ample locker accommodations

Scripps College is a member of a collegiate organization known as Claremont Colleges, in which certain services and equipment and instruction are shared to the mutual advantage of several institutions Thus Pomona College makes freely available its science laboratories and extensive musical equipment to Scripps students Likewise there are several central facilities available to the separate institutions, including a central research library, a music auditorium, an infirmary and the like

Requirements: For Admission Enrollment is limited to 200 and all students live in residence 15 units of preparatory school work or equivalent but without specific requirements as to subjects No conditions are permitted

For Degree Degree based upon achievement in certain prescribed and elective fields rather than upon specified units of credit With this in mind numerical grades are not given, neither are credits accumulated in the usual manner Comprehensive tests are used. Carefully prepared appraisals of student's progress at stated intervals have been substituted for grades. Requirements for graduation include a Humanities course for freshmen and sophomores, Biology for freshmen, and a useful knowledge of one Foreign Language. Students may concentrate upon some field of knowledge beginning with underclass years and culminating in general examinations, both oral and written, in the senior year. Provision is made for informal readers' courses of tutorial type and for honors

Departments and Staff: The Scripps faculty numbers twenty, including the usual college departments with the exception of the usual full quota of teachers in science and applied music

Degrees: Conferred, 162 The college was founded in 1926 and the first class graduated in 1931

Fees: One comprehensive fee of $1,000 covers board, room, tuition, and incidentals, such as laboratory fees, art fees, infirmary fees, and public events. The fee is payable $600 in September and $400 in February. All students have single rooms and are charged the same amount

Scholarships: Competitive scholarships, varying from $250 to $500, are available for students of high rank who need financial assistance, and generous provision is made on the college campus for productive labor of various kinds

Dates of beginning and ending of sessions. First semester from the middle of September to February first, second semester February first to the middle of June

Summer session. Claremont Colleges, the central organization, conducts the summer school

Administrative Officers: President, Ernest James Jaqua, Assistant to the President and Counselor on Human Relations, Virginia Judy Esterly, Student Adviser and Secretary, Admissions, Marjorie S. Crouch, Recorder, Joan Rudisill

Achievements A critical study of the results of the Tutorial Courses, which were introduced in September 1931, led to a number of important changes in the curriculum, particularly in the matter of more clearly defining the majors in each department. It was decided to offer the bachelor's degree with distinction to those students who are qualified, and who are willing to fulfill more exacting requirements.

Achievements of year ending June 3, 1935 (1) Introduction of the Four Course Plan The old requirement of 5 courses measured in terms of 15 credit hours has been abandoned in favor of a plan under which 4 "full courses," each occupying one-fourth of a student's time for a year, constitute the normal program of work The change is in the direction of greater concentration and thoroughness (2) Development of "interest groups" in the creative arts A plan of regularly organized extra-curricular work in the creative arts has been put fully into operation this year. Groups meet regularly under faculty direction in music, arts and crafts, writing, drawing and painting, and dramatics. The work is undertaken all the more enthusiastically because it yields no credit. (3) Progress in Honors Work, a system by which students who have shown outstanding ability and promise may devote their junior and senior years to intensive work in 3 related fields. Honors students are excused from ordinary class requirements and receive instruction in small groups and individually, they qualify for Honors by taking comprehensive written and oral examinations given by external examiners.

TULANE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA

See also Newcomb College

Privately controlled, non-sectarian University for men and women

The Tulane University of Louisiana was organized as the Medical College of Louisiana in 1834. In 1845 the state constitution established the University of Louisiana with the departments of Law, Medicine and Natural Sciences and Letters. In 1882 Mr. Paul Tulane donated his property, which with gifts amounted to $1,050,000, for educational purposes to a board of administrators who organized themselves as the Tulane Educational Fund devoted to the higher education of "the white young persons in the city of New Orleans." In 1884, by an act of the Legislature of Louisiana the existing University of Louisiana was transferred to this board and the name was changed to the Tulane University of Louisiana. In 1886, Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb donated $100,000 to establish the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College as the women's department in the University. She added largely to her original endowment, and by her will bequeathed about $2,700,000 additional.

Self-perpetuating board of 17 administrators. The University includes The College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Engineering, the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College for Young Women, the Graduate School, the College of Law, the College of Medicine (including the School of Medicine and the Graduate School of Medicine), the College of Commerce and Business Administration, the Courses for Teachers and for the General Public, the School of Social Work, the Department of Middle American Research, and the Summer Schools. The College of Engineering includes courses in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Chemical Engineering, and in Architecture.

Finances: Endowment, $10,265,258.36, income from endowment, $420,397.90. Income from other sources: Student fees, $425,474.03, gifts, $96,148.29, miscellaneous, $138,822.99, total, $1,080,843.21. Total annual expenditures for year ending August 31, 1935, $1,073,862.64.

Grounds and Buildings. Third- and fourth-year medical students, as well as students of Graduate Medicine, are taught in the Hutchinson Memorial Medical Clinic Building on Tulane Avenue and LaSalle Street, opposite the Charity Hospital, which is used in their instruction. The College of Commerce and Business Administration is in Gibson Hall. The other departments of the University, consisting of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Engineering, the H. Sophie Newcomb Memorial College for Women, the Graduate School, the College of Law, the School of Social Work and the first and second years of the School of Medicine are located on the 100 acre campus on St. Charles Avenue, opposite Audubon Park.

Warren Newcomb House, one of the residence buildings, accommodates 52 students. The Club Dormitory houses 25 students who help reduce the cost of their college education by cooperative effort. Cost of campus and buildings (including equipment), $7,142,995.26

Library F W Tilton Memorial Library (1902) and annex (1906), 88,833 volumes, not including 30,000 bound government documents. Newcomb College Library, 37,141 volumes. Dr John C MacKowen collection of 160 rare books illustrating the development of bookmaking. Art books and periodicals. Books on Musical Aesthetics, Theory, History, and Biography, as well as a collection of musical compositions. Library of School of Medicine, 27,090 volumes. Additional library facilities in each of the laboratory divisions, the Orleans Parish Medical Society, located in the new Hutchinson Memorial Building, allows students of School of Medicine all privileges. Feingold Ophthalmologic collection, 2,000 volumes. The Kells Dental Library and Museum established in 1927 in honor of the late Dr C Edmund Kells, of New Orleans, is housed on the sixth floor of the Hutchinson Memorial Medical Building. Library of the College of Law, 17,012 volumes. Middle American Research Library, 15,873 volumes and pamphlets.

Laboratories. Physics Building (1894), cost $36,000. Richardson Chemistry Building (1894, enlarged in 1908), cost $90,094.64. Science Building (1923), cost $200,000. Richardson Memorial Medical Building (1908), cost $158,962.60. Josephine Hutchinson Memorial Building (1893), cost $266,174.69. Hutchinson Memorial Medical Building (1930), cost and equipment, $1,250,000. Separate building also for Botany, Zoology, Bio-Chemistry. In addition there are laboratories of Experimental Psychology, Electrical, Civil, Mechanical, and Chemical Engineering, Anatomy, Pathology, Bacteriology, and Physiology.

Museums. The University Museum in Gibson Hall contains Petrological, Paleontological, Zoological, and Anthropological sections. The Zoological section, based mainly on the Gustav Kohn Collection, presents a synoptical view of the Zoology of the U S and particularly of the State of Louisiana. Anthropological section consists of a collection of Egyptian and aboriginal American antiquities, with special reference to Ethnology of the Louisiana Indians, their characteristics and their relation to the ancient civilizations of the Latin-American Republics. The Art Museums. Linton-Surget Hall. The Art Museum in the Tilton Memorial Library embraces the Linton-Surget collection of works of art and a library of 2,000 volumes, donated to the city of New Orleans, by Mrs Eustace Surget, of Bordeaux, France, and placed under perpetual charge of the Administrators of the University, valuable historical portraits and statuary donated by Mrs Surget, statues and other objects of art donated by Mrs F W Tilton, the loan collection of Mrs J L Harris of New Orleans, and various bronzes, marbles, paintings, engravings. The Newcomb School of Art has galleries in which are exhibited paintings representative of American Art, and art objects especially chosen with reference to instructional interests. The Department of Middle American Research was founded in 1924, for research into the History, Archaeology, Botany, the natural resources and products of Mexico, the Central American Republics, and the West Indies. Its aim is to gather and disseminate data on these countries, and to further friendly relations between the U S and its neighbors to the south. The William E. Gates collection of Mexican manuscripts, books, pamphlets, and maps, contains many rare and early books on the discovery of America, a series of unstudied manuscripts and several hundred photographic reproductions of rare material. The library of the late George H Pepper of New York, which contains material on the Indians of the U S, especially those of the Southwest, is of value in the study of the connection between the Central American aborigines and those of the U S. The Pepper collection of southwestern Indian textiles and weaving implements, pottery and handicraft, as well as scientific manuscripts are in possession of the department. The collections comprise over 15,000 books, pamphlets and other documents. Several collections of Middle American antiquities, as well as specimens of North American Indian art, have been placed on exhibition. Souchon Museum. The Museum of Anatomy, in the Richardson Memorial Building, contains a large collection of anatomical specimens, made by the late Professor Edmond Souchon.

Requirements. For Admission 15 units English and Mathematics are required in all departments and at least 2 units in a Foreign Language.

For Degree In Classical and Literary Course of College of Arts and Sciences, 126 semester hours required. In Scientific Course, 140 semester hours required. In the Graduate School a thesis is required of all candidates for the master's degree. The subject of the thesis must be in the field of the major study, and must be approved by the professor under whom the major is taken and the dean. The preparation of the thesis requires ordinarily at least half of 1 entire session. The thesis must be written in acceptable English, and must give evidence of some ability to carry on independent investigation, to grasp fundamental problems, and to reach logical conclusions.

General Attendance in gymnasium 2 half-hours each week required of all men during first year in the college. At opening of term a physical examination required.

UNION COLLEGE

SCHENECTADY, NEW YORK

College of arts, sciences, engineering, for men, privately controlled, non-sectarian

Founded in 1795 and opened in the same year Union was the child of the American Revolution, for the hopes raised by the struggle for independence led the frontiersmen in the Mohawk Valley to petition for a college soon after the Battle of Saratoga. The college, they said, should prepare their children to play a useful part in the new nation which was being created. The movement met with many disappointments and the petitioners were forced to accept an academy in 1785, 10 years later this academy was chartered as Union College, making Union one of the few colleges which had a physical plant, a student body, and a faculty from the very hour the charter was issued. The College took its name from the fact that citizens in the nearby counties, irrespective of church or political affiliations, united for its founding. The word "union" was held in high esteem because of the recent union of the states, and the spirit so characteristic of our beginnings as a nation found further expression in the college motto, "We are all brothers under the Goddess of Wisdom, Minerva."

Board of 21 trustees, 4 elected by the alumni for a term of 4 years, the Governor of the State of New York, and the rest life trustees elected by the board itself.

UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY

WEST POINT, NEW YORK

Educational institution of college grade, established and maintained by the national government for training young men for the commissioned personnel of the U.S. Army

The United States Military Academy was originally established by Act of Congress in 1802 Its curriculum and system were first scientifically organized under the superintendency of Colonel Sylvanus Thayer (1817-1833)

The Academy presents a single course of instruction, proficiency in all subjects of which is required of every student

Direction of the Academy is under the control of the Secretary of War The immediate responsibility for the conduct of the institution is in the hands of a superintendent, who is an army officer detailed for this duty by the President on the recommendation of the Secretary of War, usually for a period of 4 years

Finances: The support of the Military Academy is by funds appropriated annually by the Congress of the United States on the recommendation and estimates prepared by the superintendent and submitted through the War Department

Grounds and Buildings: The total area of the military reservation of West Point is about 5 square miles. The buildings of the Academy, however, are concentrated on a plain just above the Hudson River, occupying altogether about 1 square mile of ground. The present replacement value of the buildings alone would be upward of $33,000,000, of the grounds, buildings, and equipment would be upward of $40,000,000

Library 102,000 volumes, especially strong in military and historical works

Laboratories Contained in, and form a part of the academic buildings. Present worth of these academic buildings alone is upward of $3,000,000

Museum Ordnance exhibits and military trophies of historical interest

Observatory In a separate building on a height near the main buildings

Cadet Barracks, Gymnasium, Mess Hall, Hospital, Chapel, Riding Hall, Administration Building, and quarters for officers and enlisted men complete the buildings forming the institution

Requirements. For Admission Appointments to cadetships, subject to the physical and mental qualification, are made by the President of the U S in accordance with regulations laid down by the Congress of the U S. Nominations for appointments have been conceded to the President, Vice-President, to Senators, the Members of the House, Honor Schools and certain other sources. The total authorized strength is 1,960. The credit requirements are 15 units, including Algebra A 1, Algebra A 2, Plane Geometry, 3 units of English, and 2 units of History and optional units to complete the 15 selected from the list recognized by the College Entrance Examination

Board. Certificates are accepted except from certain specified classes of candidates. Schools must be on list published by U S Bureau of Education

For Degree Requirements for graduation and B.S. degree are the equivalent of 130 double semester hours plus additional work in Military Training and Athletics. An average grade of 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ % is necessary for proficiency in each subject. Curriculum wholly prescribed. No graduate courses are given Departments and Staff: Tactics Professors, 1, assistant professors, 1, officer instructors, 19. Civil and Military Engineering 1, 1, 10. Natural and Experimental Philosophy 1, 1, 13. In addition, the Department of Tactics has 3 civilian instructors, and the Department of Modern Languages has 3 civilian instructors

Enrollment June 1935, 1,217 cadets. Graduated. June 1935, 277. Total number of graduates from 1802 to 1935, inclusive, 10,459

Students at the Military Academy are a part of the United States Army and receive pay and rations aggregating the value of $1,072 a year in cash. Out of this money, each cadet pays all his own expenses

New cadets are admitted each year on July 1. From July 1 until September 1 they are given elementary military training. Academic work begins September 1 and continues until graduation day, about June 12 of each year. At the end of the second year at the Academy, cadets receive a furlough from June 12 until August 28. The other summers are spent in military training

The annual publication showing registration is the Official Register of the Officers and Cadets, United States Military Academy. In addition, the War Department publishes annually a bulletin entitled,

Information Relative to the Appointment and Admission of Cadets to the United States Military Academy

UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY

ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND

Engineering school, men, controlled by the U. S. Government, Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. Non-sectarian

Founded in 1845 by the Honorable George Bancroft, Secretary of the Navy, in the administration of President James K. Polk. Formally opened October 10, 1845

A line officer of the Navy, not below the rank of captain is assigned by the Navy Department as superintendent

Finances. Financed by the United States Government. Budget for 1935-36, $1,928,000. This does not include the pay of officers, instructors, and enlisted men

Grounds and Buildings. Total value of grounds, $2,000,000. Total present worth of buildings, $27,000,000. Estimated value of equipment, $1,000,000. Total value of grounds, buildings, and equipment, $30,000,000

Library (1908) 80,742 volumes, 95 current periodicals, 20 serials or annuals

Laboratories (1908) Chemistry, Physics, Electricity, Radio, Steam Engineering, and Gas Engines

Museum. The Naval Academy Museum is small but contains a most interesting and valuable collection of artistic, naval, and historical objects Requirements: For Admission. All correspondence regarding nomination and examination of candidates should be addressed to the Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

Students of the Naval Academy, called midshipmen, are nominated by senators, representatives and delegates in Congress—not more than 4 by each—and by the Governor of Puerto Rico (1 native of the Island), and 4 by the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico, 4 Filipinos, 1 for each class, designated by the Governor General of the Philippine Islands

4 appointments for the District of Columbia and 15 from the U. S. at large are made by the President, and 5 appointments are allowed the Vice-President. 40 appointments from among the sons of deceased officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines of the World War, are also made by the President

Additional appointments of 100 men are made from the regular Navy and Marine Corps on the basis of a competitive examination. From the Naval Reserve and Marine Corps Reserve 25 are selected each year on the basis of competitive examination

Candidates must be unmarried. Candidates are required to be citizens of the U. S. and must be not less than 16 years of age nor more than 20 years of age on April 1 of the calendar year in which they enter the Naval Academy

Candidates admitted on examination must present English Composition and Literature (3 years' study in a secondary school), Ancient History, U. S. History, Algebra (through quadratic equations, exponents and radicals), Plane Geometry, and Physics

Candidates admitted on certificate will be examined in Mathematics and English and must present certificate from a university, college, or technological school accredited by the Academy, or a certificate from a public high school showing proficiency in 9 required units and 6 optional units or a certificate of the College Entrance Examination Board showing proficiency in examinations in subjects amounting to 15 units. Examination in Mathematics and English may be waived where a candidate is able to present acceptable high school and college certificates, the college certificate to show a minimum of 24

semester hours of credit acceptable to the Naval Academy, at least 6 of which shall be in English or History, and 6 in Mathematics

Candidates are required to be of good moral character, physically sound, well-formed and of robust constitution. A rigorous physical examination is given before a candidate is admitted, and annually thereafter throughout the 4-year course. The Academy is forced to drop any student who fails to pass these rigorous physical examinations.

For Degree The Naval Academy curriculum includes but 1 course which all midshipmen are required to take. The course is of 4 years' duration. Midshipmen are given a general and professional education of collegiate grade and a sufficient basic naval and military training to enable them to enter upon the duties of ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

General All midshipmen are required to take a regular course in Physical Culture. The Naval Academy is a military school and the curriculum includes such courses in Military Science as apply to the Naval Service. All midshipmen are required to attend church services on Sunday, but they may choose the church they desire to attend. All midshipmen are required to live in quarters provided for them.

21,508. Total number of graduates since foundation, 12,196.

Degrees: An act of Congress approved on May 24, 1933, authorized the Superintendent to confer the B.S. degree upon all graduates after 1930.

In the Class of 1935 (graduated June 6, 1935) there were 442 graduates. Of this number 370 were commissioned Ensigns in the U.S. Navy, and 26 as Second Lieutenants in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Fees Entrance deposit. Upon admission to the Naval Academy all candidates are required to make an entrance deposit of $100, to be used as part payment to cover cost of uniforms, clothing, textbooks, and incidentals. Immediately after admission, each new midshipman is credited with an additional sum of $250 (loaned by the Government and charged against the account of the midshipman), which is needed in addition to the $100 cash deposit referred to above, for uniforms, clothing, textbooks, and incidentals.

No fees are charged. All midshipmen receive pay from the Government sufficient to meet all expenses while at the Naval Academy, including clothing, food, textbooks, and incidentals.

Dates of beginning and ending sessions. The regular session of the Naval Academy begins the last week in September, and ends the last week in May (Academic year, 1935-36 September 27, 1935 to May 28, 1936).

During the summer session, 2 classes are sent to sea in naval ships for a summer practice cruise, during which practical instruction is given them in Navigation, Seamanship, Electrical Engineering, Marine Engineering, Gunnery, and Radio, the instruction being supplemented by lectures. 1 class remains at the Naval Academy to receive practical instruction in subjects relating to Engineering and Aviation. The newly admitted class is given practical work in elementary naval training, such as in boats, rifle range, and infantry. The month of September for this new class is devoted to preliminary academic work to indoctrinate the midshipman and familiarize him with the methods of recitation and study at the Naval Academy

Publications Superintendent's Annual Report Naval Academy Register Catalog of Course of Instruction General Information Pamphlet

Recent achievements A Department of Economics and Government was established at the U S Naval Academy effective June 2, 1933 During the past academic year practical instruction in the Department of Seamanship and Navigation has been greatly improved by introducing subchaser drills for the second class in the summer term and by introducing drills in the destroyer underway for first and second classes in the second term Destroyer cruises were also introduced in the summer of 1935 for the second class remaining at the Naval Academy

UTAH, UNIVERSITY OF SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

State university, coeducational

Founded in 1850, about two and a half years after the arrival of the Utah pioneers. University opened in 1850, but in 1851 instruction was discontinued and not resumed until 1867. Professional work in Education and later in Engineering led to establishment in connection with the University of the State Schools of Education, and of Mines and Engineering. Schools of Medicine, Law, and Business have been added.

Board of 14 regents, 2 of whom are the secretary of state and the president of the University. Other members appointed by governor of state for 4-year terms.

Finances: State legislative appropriations. Certain funds are also derived from U.S. land grants to the state and from private gifts to the University. Total expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1935, $719,157. Total maintenance budget for 1935-36, $815,157. A library building has just been completed at an expense of $500,000.

Grounds and Buildings: Campus of 147 acres on east bench overlooking Salt Lake City. Ground was gift of U.S. Buildings worth $3,000,000 and equipment over $600,000.

Library 124,000 volumes including 10,500 government documents. Medical, Mining, and Law Libraries have separate quarters.

Laboratories. Mining and Metallurgical laboratories in separate buildings, which also house the work of the U.S. Bureau of Mines. Physics and Chemistry laboratories in Physical Science building, Zoology and Botany laboratories in Museum Building, Geology laboratory in Geology Building, Business and Home Economics laboratories in Industrial Education Building.

Museums. Archaeological and Art Museums in Park Building. Dinosaur collection in Geology Building. Biological museums in Museum Building.

Observatory (1916) 9-inch refractor.

Requirements: For Admission 15 units, including English, 3, History, 1, Algebra and Geometry, 2. At least 10 units must be in English, Mathematics, Science, History and Social Science, or Foreign Languages. $\frac{1}{2}$ unit of Solid Geometry, an extra $\frac{1}{2}$ unit of Algebra, and 1 unit of Science are prescribed for entrance to School of Mines and Engineering.

For Degree. For graduation, 183 quarter credit hours (200 in the School of Mines and Engineering). In the Schools of Arts and Sciences, Education, and Business, 13 hours must be in Mathematics and Physical Science, 13 in Biological Science, 13 in Language, 13 in Social Science, 4 must be in laboratory work in Physical or Biological Science, 45 must be earned in residence in 3 consecutive quarters, 45 of the 183 must be senior college work. A student's aggregate standing is expressed in honor points, 3 honor points for each credit hour of A grade, 2 for B, 1 for C, no honor points for D, minus 1 for E. Credit obtained by transfer is reckoned as of C grade. A student's average grade or ratio is computed by dividing the total of honor points by the total number of credit hours registered. A credit ratio of 1 is required for graduation. Honors are awarded on graduation for a ratio of 2.15, and high honors for a ratio of 2.5. Not more than 60 credit hours may be from 1 department, but a major of from 36 to 45 hours is required. A comprehensive examination must be passed in the field of concentration. Additional prescriptions in School of Education. There are prescribed courses in the other professional schools. Prescribed courses in the School of Mines and Engineering cover 4 years. 2 years of prescribed work in Medicine follow. 3 years of partially prescribed work in Arts and Sciences. The University does not offer the last 2 years of a medical course. 3 years of prescribed work in Law follow. 2 years of Arts and Sciences. Candidate for master's degree must pass a qualifying examination in the department in which he proposes to pursue graduate work, and present 45 quarter hours' resident work, including a satisfactory thesis. 23 hours must be in 1 department of instruction, and 12 in a supporting field, which may be a distinct division of the department. The degrees of Mining Engineer, Electrical Engineer, Civil Engineer, Mechanical Engineer, Chemical Engineer, or Irrigation Engineer may be conferred upon graduates of the School of Mines and Engineering of the University of Utah who have spent after graduation at least 3 years in professional work, one of which must have been in a position of responsibility, and who present a satisfactory thesis.

Requirements For Admission 15 units including English, 3, Foreign Languages, 5, Social Sciences, 1, Natural Sciences, 3 (2 of these in Mathematics), 3 selected The Committee on Admission may allow some substitution within the regularly prescribed units to meet individual needs of promising students 4 plans of admission are at present in use at Vassar College Plan B by which students take 4 comprehensive examinations of the College Entrance Examination Board and the scholastic aptitude test at the end of the school course, Plan C by which they take 2 comprehensive examinations and the scholastic aptitude test at the end of the junior year and 2 comprehensive examinations at the end of the senior year, Plan D by which students in the upper seventh of their classes in schools remote from the college offer the scholastic aptitude test in connection with the school record, Regents Plan for the use of students attending New York State public high schools Vassar College also offers special terms of admission to students in certain experimental groups Except for the few candidates registered before March 1, 1923, candidates will be accepted from the entire list of applicants according to fitness for college rather than priority of application

For Degree For A B, 64 points (equivalent to 120 hours), in Physical Education work is required to enable a student to maintain suitable health standards Standing in College is determined by ratio of number of quality credits to number of points elected A credit ratio of 2 (average of C) is required for graduation In freshman year 1 subject must be elected from each of the 4 groups Arts, Foreign Languages and Literatures, Natural Sciences,

Social Sciences A major field, which is a program of sequential study leading to advanced work in 1 department with closely related courses in 1 or more other departments, must be selected at the end of freshman year The minimum in any major field is 24 points Tutorial and departmental guidance in the major field helps a student both to plan her program and to correlate material A comprehensive examination in the major subject is required of all students in the latter half of senior year Requirements for A M As Vassar is essentially an undergraduate college, very few A M degrees are given In general, the candidate must have received A B degree from a college whose work is accepted at Vassar, and must spend 1 year in residence at Vassar One half of work may be done elsewhere Candidate must pass a satisfactory examination at Vassar, and present a thesis which shows independent investigation

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE

LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA

The Virginia Military Institute, founded in 1839 by the State of Virginia, is patterned after the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Owned by the State of Virginia, undesignated.

The board of visitors is made up of 9 members appointed for 4 years by the Governor of Virginia and 2 ex-officio members, the superintendent of public instruction and the adjutant general of the state. Under this board the superintendent has charge of the operation of the institution.

Finances The institute has no endowment other than an appropriation from the state which usually covers the cost of tuition ($200 each) of all Virginia cadets and the cost of board ($240 each) of so-called "state cadets," Virginians who are especially appointed and who have definite obligations to fulfill in repayment therefor. It administers trust funds of $164,339, the income ($7,825) from which is credited to the accounts of cadets holding scholarships and for other purposes. Its income comes largely from the cadets ($340,122) and from the State of Virginia ($75,354 for operation, $475 for loans, $24,850 for capital improvements) which supplemented by sales, rentals, and miscellaneous incomes ($46,057) makes a total of $486,858. The total expenditures were $373,924 for capital improvements ($360,000 comprised a 4-building P. W. A. project) and $495,729 for operation—a total of $869,653.

Grounds and Buildings The campus contains 86 acres and occupies parts of 3 parallel ridges with the intervening valleys, the parade ground, 14 acres, being on the central ridge and the athletic field and tennis courts (10 acres) being in one of the valleys. A 150-acre farm was acquired for artillery and cavalry evolutions.

All cadets are required to live in the barracks and this limits the attendance to 720—an attendance drawn from all the states.

Grounds valued at $185,000, barracks (dormitory), $353,637, other buildings, $1,331,351, total value of the property, $2,174,611. The barracks is notable among buildings of its kind—a hollow square of severe Tudor-Gothic design. The Jackson Memorial Hall, designed by Bertram G. Goodhue, is a monumental structure. These 2 buildings are to be fireproofed in 1936 as a $269,000 P. W. A. project.

Library (1907) 44,289 volumes, 97 periodicals. Engineering and Chemistry branch libraries in respective laboratory buildings.

Laboratories. Maury-Brooke Hall (1934), value, $64,048, houses the Chemistry, Geological and Mineralogical laboratories. Scott Shipp Hall (1918), $125,000, houses the Physics, Biology, and Psychology laboratories. Nichols Engineering Hall (1931) cost $185,920 and houses the Civil and Electrical Engineering laboratories, also a well equipped historical museum open without charge to the public.

The value of the equipment follows: Chemistry, $22,408, Geology and Mineralogy, $6,455, Physics, $10,651, Biology, $6,898, Psychology, $1,978, Civil Engineering, $29,534, Electrical Engineering, $19,334, all others, $11,158.

Requirements: For Admission. High school graduation (or equivalent) with 15 units in specified subjects. The required units are: English, 3, Mathematics, 2½ (which must include Algebra through quadratics, the progressions and the binomial theorem, and Plane Geometry), History, 2. Applicants presenting less than 2 units in a Language receive no credit therefor. Cadets who do not have credit for Solid Geometry are required to take the subject in the first term of the freshman year. No conditions are allowed.

For Degree. For graduation a cadet must complete without deficiency in any subject, courses having a valuation of 145 semester hours. All cadets are required to take the same course (with the exception of a Foreign Language election) for the first 2 years. The subjects are fundamental and no selection or evasion is permitted. In the last 2 years the work is specialized. The courses are limited to 4—Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, and Liberal Arts. Once a course is selected the subjects are fixed, with the exception of a Pre-Medical option in the Chemistry course. No one may attend more than 5 years and no applicant for a degree less than 2 years. One who has more than 7½ semester hour deficiencies may not advance a class nor may one repeat the freshman class. A cadet in one class may not take subjects taught in a more or less advanced class. All cadets take Military Science and are members of the corps which is organized as a regiment of infantry. All cadets live in the same barracks in rooms uniformly fitted, they are required to eat at the same mess and to dress uniformly. Cadets are marched to all classes, drills, mess, and church in formation. All cadets must attend church on Sunday, each cadet selecting the church he prefers. All freshmen are required to take the course in Physical Education which is supplemented by the extensive military program in which the old cadets also take part.

Departments and Staff: Chemistry and Biology. Professors, 1, associate professors, 1, assistant professors, 3, instructors, 0. Civil Engineering 1, 0, 1, 2. Drawing and Mechanics 0, 1, 0, 1. Economics and Political Science 1, 0, 0, 1. Electrical Engineering 1, 1, 1, 0. English and Literature 1, 1, 0, 2. Foreign Languages 3, 0, 1, 1. History 1, 0, 2, 1. Mathematics 1, 2, 1, 1. Military and Physical Education 1, 0, 6, 1. Mineralogy and Geology 1, 0, 0, 0. Physics, 1, 1, 1, 1. Psychology and Philosophy 1, 0, 0, 0.

Enrollment: Year ending June 30, 1935, 560. This enrollment represents 34 states.

and 4 foreign countries. Residents of Virginia constitute 57% of the enrollment. Since the foundation of the institution in 1839, 11,803 have matriculated.

Degrees: Conferred year ending June 30, 1935, 131 B S in Chemistry, 35, B S in Civil Engineering, 47, B S in Electrical Engineering, 18, B A, 29, C E, 2. Since the foundation of the institution 4,369 have been graduated.

Fees: The fees are fixed. Cadets pay $920 the first year and $720 each year thereafter. These figures include the cost of tuition ($200) which is paid by the state for all Virginians, board, lodging, laundry, clothing and uniforms, all fees (laboratory, library, medical, band, barber shop and admission to athletic contests). The figures include an item of $100 to cover supplies, books, etc., the unused part of which ($13,286.94 in 1935), is refunded at the end of the session.

Scholarships: 32 scholarships are awarded each year based upon trust funds and gifts. They have an aggregate value of $7,551, or an average value of $229. Save in those cases where the donor selects the appointee, the award of these scholarships is in general restricted to old cadets so that the awards may be based on a known record and thus more equitably determined. In addition to the foregoing, 79 scholarships having a value of $240 annually (aggregate value $18,960) are awarded by special appointment by the board of visitors to Virginians. They must be applied for on special forms before May 1 and require the performance of specified services (teaching, military or highway construction) after the cadet leaves the Institute. The appointments hold good during the proficient performance of academic work for the entire period of cadetship. No cadet having a deficiency in any subject at the beginning of a session may hold one of these scholarships.

The session starts on Thursday following Labor Day (new cadets report 4 days later), and closes Wednesday following the second Sunday in June.

The summer session is conducted as a 6-week coaching school which terminates when the regular session opens. No credit is allowed for work done in this summer school or any other summer school. Proficiency must be shown by an examination conducted by the faculty and not by the summer school authorities. The number of subjects taught varies with the requirements. In 1935 the attendance was 55.

Catalog in February and the Superintendent's Report in July.

Administrative Officers: In the 97 years of its existence the institution has had 5 superintendents. The fifth and present incumbent is Major General John A. Lejeune, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy who was formerly the commandant of the United States Marine Corps and commanded the Second Division in the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War. Registration is in charge of Col. William Couper, Executive Officer. Director of the Summer Coaching School, Col. B. D. Mayo.

VIRGINIA POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE

BLACKSBURG, VIRGINIA

Land-grant college, chiefly for men, but open to women, including schools of Agriculture, Engineering, Business Administration, and Applied Science. Largely technical, no liberal arts degree being offered. Controlled and supported by state with assistance from federal government.

Established in 1872 by General Assembly of Virginia, which accepted provisions of the Land-grant Act of 1862. In 1888 an Agricultural Experiment Station was established and in 1914 the Agricultural Extension Service of Virginia was made an integral part of this institution. Requirements: For Admission Requirements for admission to the College of Liberal Arts and the pre-professional courses are graduation from a 4-year, accredited high school, in middle or highest third of graduating class, and the recommendation of the high school principal The student must present at least 15 units including 10 units from English, Foreign Language, Mathematics, History, and Science Not less than 2 units in a Foreign Language are counted for admission No conditions allowed Students in lowest third of high school class must take entrance examinations of aptitude type, in English, Foreign Language, and Mathematics, and a general intelligence examination For admission to the Schools of Engineering and Architecture the student must be a graduate of a first-class, 4-year, accredited high school and be recommended by his high school principal and must rank in the middle or highest third of his class Students in the lowest third, in general, are required to take entrance examinations The specific requirements for admission include 3 units in English and 3 in Mathematics The requirements for admission to the Schools of Law and of Business and Public Administration are 2 years of college work, largely prescribed For admission to the School of Medicine, a bachelor's degree For admission to the School of Dentistry, graduation from a first-class, 4-year accredited high school, and one year of Pre-Dental work largely prescribed For admission to the School of Nursing, same as for the College of Liberal Arts For admission to the School of Graduate Studies, a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university

For Degree For A B, 124 semester hours, an average of C for the entire 4 years The first 2 years for A B degree are practically entirely prescribed and during junior and senior years the student must complete 4 advanced courses, 2 of which must be in one department In the Schools of Engineering, Architecture, Law, Dentistry, Medicine, and in University College, students must complete prescribed courses, with limited electives in some of the curricula In the Schools of Engineering, Architecture, and Law, C average is required semester hours of resident study, an oral examination, and a dissertation. For Ph D, 72 semester hours of which 54 are required in the major subject and 18 in the minor subject, an oral examination, a dissertation, and a reading knowledge of French and German.

For A M, M S., and M. Arch, 24-30

General. 2 years of Physical Education or Military Science and Tactics are required for A B, B S in Engineering, and Bachelor of Architecture degrees. Assemblies are conducted for which certain classes are excused and other students are required to attend.

Schools and Staff. 1934-35, College of Liberal Arts, Schools of Engineering and Architecture, School of Business and Public Administration. Professors, 45, associate professors, 29, assistant professors, 34, instructors, 37. Fees: Annual tuition fee in the College of Liberal Arts, the Schools of Engineering, Architecture, Business and Public Administration, Law, and Dentistry, $250, in School of Medicine, $400, in School of Fine Arts, $150, in the School of Graduate Studies, $100. Undergraduate matriculation fee, $5, diploma fee, from $3 to $10, laboratory, $5 to $15 a course, in School of Medicine one deposit fee covers all laboratories.

Health fee of $4 each year and a student activities fee of $10 to $14 each year. Room rent in dormitories varies from $75 to $190 a year. Board for men in the cafeteria averages $1 a day. In McMillan Hall for women, board averages $8.50 a week. Total annual expense. Minimum, $700, average, $850, high, $1,000.

Scholarships: 7 loan funds. About 174 undergraduate scholarships covering tuition fee of $250, but most of them except Honor Scholarships for certain high schools are divided so that each award as a rule covers $125. 57 graduate scholarships and fellowships ranging from $100 to $1,500. In addition 21 graduate assistantships, which entail half-time laboratory or similar assistance on the part of the recipient. School of Law assigns 10 library service scholarships and 12 scholarships for full or part tuition. School of Medicine has a loan fund and a few scholarships for part tuition. Schools of Dentistry, Nursing, and Fine Arts have several scholarships for part tuition.

Research funds. Research funds and grants for 1934-35 amounted to $126,263, used mostly for research in the sciences.

Employment bureau. Nearly 50% of the undergraduates are engaged in part-time employment with the purpose of meeting some or all of the expenses of their education. Approximately half of these students secure work through the University Board for Employment and Appointments.

Dates of beginning and ending sessions. Fourth Thursday in September, Tuesday preceding second Thursday in June.

Summer session. 35 departments offered 206 courses in 1935. Attendance, 1,152.

University extension. Classes in University College are given on the campus in the evenings, late afternoons, and Saturday mornings. 271 courses are offered in 48 departments.

Publications. Separate catalogs of the various schools are published 3 times a month from January to June. The Washington University Studies, beginning in 1913, 79 numbers published. Adult Education Bulletin published by University College, 4 or 5 times a year, beginning in September 1927 Alumni Bulletin published monthly, beginning in October 1931 Dental Journal, a quarterly publication by the Alumni Association of the School of Dentistry, last issue, Vol II, No 1 The St Louis Law Review, a quarterly, first issue, December 1915

Achievements of year ending June 30, 1935 Training of 110 graduate students for the F E R A by the Department of Social Work Students sent by federal government from 8 states Wayman Crow Hall of Physics opened in fall of 1934, with formal exercises held in conjunction with the meeting of the American Physical Society in the early part of December New Journalism laboratory opened in Eads Hall in March 1935 New curriculum in Speech Pathology established and Speech courses expanded, reorganization and expansion of work in History of Art, new curriculum in Engineering Administration set up, and degree of BS in Engineering Administration authorized

WASHINGTON, UNIVERSITY OF SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

Campus in northeastern section of Seattle, state university for men and women

Established by legislature of Territory of Washington in 1861, on a 10-acre campus located in what is now the central business district of Seattle Instruction continued on the old campus until 1895, when the University moved to its present location

Board of 7 regents appointed for 6-year terms by governor with the approval of senate

The University comprises the following colleges, schools, and divisions University College (Colleges of Liberal Arts and Science), College of Economics and Business, College of Education, College of Engineering, College of Forestry, College of Mines, College of Pharmacy, Graduate School, School of Architecture, School of Art, School of Fisheries, School of Home Economics, School of Journalism, School of Law, School of Librarianship, School of Music, School of Nursing Education, Extension Service, Engineering Experiment Station (including the Northwest Experiment Station of the U S Bureau of Mines), Bailey and Babette Gatzert Foundation for Child Welfare, the McDermott Foundation for Medical Research, Oceanographic Laboratories, and Graduate Division of Social Work

Finances A 47-year lease of the old site, executed in 1907, furnishes a part of the building fund that is providing housing for the University This is supplemented by a portion of the student tuition fee, which is set aside for the building fund, $30 a student, approximately $270,000 a year The operating expenses of the University are met in part by student fees and in part by appropriations made by the legislature of the state The University has been assisted by private gifts, among which may be noted Anderson Hall (Forestry), $260,000, the Henry Art Gallery and collection of paintings, $500,000, the Stadium, built from money collected by the Associated Students of the University of Washington, $500,000, the McDermott Memorial Fund for Medical Research, $100,000, the Denny fellowship funds for research students, amounting to $75,000, the Bailey and Babette Gatzert Foundation for Child Welfare, $30,000, the Chimes, $15,000, Guggenheim Hall (Aeronautics), $290,000, Rockefeller Foundation Fund of $250,000 toward establishment of Oceanographic Laboratories, Rockefeller Foundation 4-year grant of a total of $30,000, for the School of Nursing Education, and the Agnes Healy Anderson Forestry Trust Fund of $50,000

Endowment, $4,994,215 36, income from endowment (bonds only), $7,803 67 State appropriation for the biennium ending March 31, 1935, $2,336,160 In addition to this, the University expended $1,451,263 from other sources during this period

Grounds and Buildings The campus, 582 acres, is located on the north bank of the government canal connecting Puget Sound with Lake Washington The Naval Unit of the ROTC, and the Department of Physical Education and Student Activities make use of the water front Approximately 75 buildings The Oceanographic Laboratories located on the University campus and at Friday Harbor in the San Juan Islands (484 acres), are open during the summer months to investigators and advanced students 2 residence halls for women, accommodating 55 each Total value of grounds, $1,072,100 Total present worth of buildings (not including real estate investments), $6,195,461 Total value of grounds, buildings, and equipment, $9,463,000.

Laboratory (1927), $270,523 Observatory (1895), $3,210 Engineering Shops (1909), $25,170, $7,047 Johnson Hall (1930), $454,380, Bacteriology, Botany, Geology, Zoology equipment, $23,983 Fisheries Buildings (1924), $11,086, $7,104 Anatomy Laboratory (1921), $7,903, $6,273 Oceanographic Laboratories (1934), $196,375, $49,048 Total value of laboratories, $1,995,882, equipment, $197,543 The Pack Demonstration Forest, 2,000 acres, located at La Grande, Washington, with value of $150,000, machinery and equipment, $26,000.

Museums University Museum (serving also as state museum) Collections containing series of birds, marine fauna, habitat groups of animals, minerals, and articles illustrating the life of the Northwest Indian, Eskimo, Oceanic natives, and Chinese, are on exhibition, also archaeology of Columbia River Valley, herbarium of over 40,000 specimens of Northwest flora, Washington birds, eggs and nests, mammalian osteological material, and extensive material relating to North American Indians, especially those of the Northwest

Botanical garden and arboretum of approximately 200 acres adjoining the campus is being developed by the University jointly with the City of Seattle

Observatory 6-inch refractor and other equipment

Requirements: For Admission 12 units in senior high school, including English, 2 Of the remaining 10, 4 must be in academic subjects, and the remaining 6 in academic or technical courses or both Additional specific subjects required University College Plane Geometry, 1 unit, Social Science, 1, Foreign Language, second unit of 1, Laboratory Science, 1, College of Economics and Business Plane Geometry, 1, or Advanced Algebra, 1 Engineering and Mines Colleges Plane Geometry, 1, Solid Geometry, $\frac{1}{2}$, Advanced Algebra, $\frac{1}{2}$, Physics, 1 College of Forestry Plane Geometry, 1, Advanced Algebra, $\frac{1}{2}$, one Modern Foreign Language, 2 Students who have satisfied the subject requirements of their chosen college and have maintained a grade point average of 2.0 during the last 3 years of high school, enter as regular students. Graduates of high schools in the State of Washington otherwise clear but whose senior high school grades fall below the required 2.0 average are admitted on freshman probation for 1 year. Law School admits students with senior standing in an acceptable college curriculum, provided grades average 2.25 (C+). School of Journalism admits students from a Pre-Journalism course in University College at the end of sophomore year. School of Librarianship admits only graduates that have earned standard degrees at accredited universities and colleges, provided they have the equivalent of a B average and 2 units (20 quarter hours) in both French and German.

For Degree Quarter system. For graduation from first degree curricula, 180 quarter credits, plus 6 quarter credits of Physical Education and 6 quarter credits of Military Science or Naval Science. Grade-points are assigned to grades as follows: A-4, B-3, C-2, D-1, E-0. For graduation students must have twice as many grade points as registered credits.

Choice of studies limited in the main by the objective of each curriculum. In University College a student is required to take at least 60 quarter credits in upper division courses, and 18 such credits must be in major subject. College of Education requires at least 48 credits in upper division courses, while in the total credits for bachelor's degree there must be included 36 credits in an academic major and 26 credits in Education. In technological curricula, courses are largely prescribed, with electives generally confined to the junior and senior years.

Master's and doctor's degrees granted by Graduate School upon completion with high quality of 1 year and 3 years work, respectively, with at least 1 year in residence, and the passing of satisfactory oral and written examinations, and the submission of a satisfactory thesis.

College, Western

WESTERN COLLEGE

OXFORD, OHIO

Liberal arts college for women, privately controlled.

Founded in 1853 by Presbyterians, opened in 1855. The founders, while Presbyterians, were determined that no denomination should have any measure of control. The only provision in the charter is that the majority of the trustees shall be members of some evangelical church. The dominant idea in their minds was to establish a non-profit institution where the ideals of Mary Lyon as illustrated at Mt. Holyoke should prevail. In their thought the new institution was to be a "Western" Mt. Holyoke. The first faculty and the nucleus of the first student body all came from Mt. Holyoke. There was, therefore, a senior class the first year.

Self-perpetuating board of 15 trustees, 2 are elected by the alumnae association and are ineligible for reelection.

Finances. Endowment, $908,593.10. Total expenditures, 1934-35, $217,685.50.

Grounds and Buildings. 742 acres valued at $111,105. Total valuation of land, buildings, and equipment, $1,198,838. 10 academic buildings and 9 faculty residences. 4 residence halls with capacity for 370 students and 50 members of the faculty and administrative staff. No students are admitted unless they live on the campus.

Library. 38,000 volumes, 140 periodicals currently received. The library is housed in Alumnae Hall (1892).

Laboratories. Equipment in Science valued at $17,092. A geological collection, which was the gift of Mr. Robert S. Fulton of Cincinnati.

Museum. A museum committee of the faculty has listed all the old books and valuable articles of various kinds belonging to the College and arranges exhibits, each 2 weeks in length. The Art Department has an exhibition room in which exhibits, brought to the campus, are displayed several times a year.

Requirements: For Admission 15 units, including English, 3, History, 1, Mathematics, 2, Foreign Languages, 4 (not less than 2 in any 1 language), Science, 1.

For Degree. 124 semester hours, including 4 semester hours in Physical Education. C average must be maintained. A new curriculum is now well on its way to adoption. It will include less definitely required work, a field of concentration for third and fourth years with a comprehensive examination, greater emphasis on divisions and lessened emphasis on departments.

General Chapel is held 5 mornings a week at 8 o'clock and a church service with visiting preachers from different denominations each Sunday at 11 o'clock.

WILLIAM AND MARY, COLLEGE OF

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA

Liberal arts college, coeducational, state controlled

The College of William and Mary in its antecedents reaches back to the effort, begun in 1617, to establish in Virginia the University of Henricopolis The Indian Massacre of 1622 brought this effort to naught, and George Thorpe, who had been sent over to be deputy of the company to have charge of the college lands, was killed, as were many others interested in the endeavor The project for a college was revived in 1661, but received insufficient support In 1690, James Blair, commissary of the Bishop of London in Virginia, submitted to a convention of the Virginia clergy a plan for a college He was sent to England to procure a charter from the King and Queen This was accomplished on February 8, 1693, and the college therefore bears the name of William and Mary The college was granted certain quit rents, the income from a tobacco tax, and 20,000 acres of land. London merchants pledged £3,000, some pardoned pirates gave £300, and liberal subscriptions were received also from Virginians

The main college building was designed by Sir Christopher Wren and was begun in 1695 The chapel wing was built in 1732 In 1705, 1859, and again in 1862, this building fell victim to devastating fire The ancient walls, however, were so thickly and firmly built that they have been able to preserve a married but unbroken continuity through these and other experiences of the past centuries. During the Yorktown campaign, Washington used the College as a hospital. The Brafferton building was erected in 1723 out of funds secured from the rents of the Brafferton estate in Yorkshire, England, made available by the bequest of the Honorable Robert Boyle, the eminent chemist and physicist. It was originally used as the Indian School of the College, and in it were quartered the Indians and the master of the Indian School.

The president's house was built in 1732. In June 1781, for a few days, it was occupied by Lord Cornwallis, and after the Battle of Yorktown it was occupied by officers of the French army, and while in their possession was accidentally burned. The walls withstood the fire, and the building was restored by King Louis XVI from his private exchequer. During the War between the States this building was used for some time by officers of the U S Army.

Among the recent buildings erected on the campus is the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Building, in 1926, by the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, which was founded at the College of William and Mary, December 5, 1776.

YALE UNIVERSITY NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT

University, privately endowed, of 11 schools Women admitted as candidates for all degrees except those offered by Yale College, Sheffield Scientific School, School of Engineering, and the School of Forestry Non-denominational

Founded by 10 Connecticut clergymen meeting at Branford, 1701, chartered as "Collegiate School" the same year Early Commencements at Saybrook, first seat of the college, removal to New Haven, 1716 Named Yale College, 1718 Named Yale University by act of General Assembly of State of Connecticut, 1887

Governed by Corporation of Yale University which includes president of University, governor and lieutenant-governor of state, 6 alumni fellows elected for 6-year terms by graduates of 5 or more years' standing, and 10 fellows, who are "Successors of the Original Trustees."

Divisions of University: Undergraduate schools Yale College Historically the progenitor of the University, now its school of liberal arts Emphasis on humanistic studies Confers B A degree Sheffield Scientific School So named in 1861 for Joseph Earl Sheffield, of New Haven, whose gifts made possible the grouping in 1 school of courses in science being given independently and in Department of Philosophy and the Arts in Yale College Courses in science lead to B S degree School of Engineering Instruction in engineering, established in 1852 and for 70 years given by Sheffield Scientific School, organized in 1933 as separate school Its faculty directs undergraduate work which leads to degree of B S as well as graduate studies leading to professional engineering degrees Freshman Year Common to all divisions Its function is to prepare for advanced work in Yale College, Sheffield Scientific School, and School of Engineering Most freshmen live on the old campus, are required to eat their meals in University Dining Hall

residential colleges—Berkeley, Branford, Calhoun, Davenport, Jonathan Edwards, Pierson, Saybrook, Timothy Dwight, and Trumbull. One other college, Silliman, is planned. Each college has its own library, dining hall, common rooms, squash courts, and accommodations for 160 to 200 students. Each college has a master who lives in the college. Associated with him as active fellows are 12 or 15 members of the faculty, some of whom reside in the college, all of whom have rooms there in which to meet students.

Graduate School Established 1847, though advanced instruction had been given previously. Granted first Ph D in 1861 and first M.A. for specific scholarly work in 1876. Women first admitted to Ph D in 1892, to M A in 1917. "The honor of having established the first creditable course of study for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy is due to Yale."* Degrees conferred: Ph D, M A, M S, Certificate in Transpiration.

School in Medicine Chartered 1810. Instruction began 1813. First degrees of M D granted in 1814. Course is now one of 4 years. Properly qualified students may pursue work leading to degrees of M P H and Dr P H.

Divinity School Instruction in Theology since the foundation of the school in 1701. Distinct department founded 1822. Degree of B D granted, 1867. 3-year course. Work may be taken leading to the M A and Ph D degrees.

School of Law A school for study of law founded by a Yale graduate of the class of 1797 was affiliated with the College in 1824, granting degree of LL B first in 1843. 3-year course for LL B degree. Higher degrees (LL M., J S D, D C L) granted for graduate work of distinction.

School of Fine Arts Founded 1866. 4 professional courses: Architecture (open to men only), Drama, Painting, Sculpture. The degree of B.F.A. is conferred for completion of a course in Architecture or for advanced work of distinction in Painting or Sculpture. A certificate is conferred for satisfactory completion of courses in Drama, Painting, or Sculpture. Properly qualified students may pursue work leading to degree of M F A.

School of Music Courses in Music previously given in other schools, organized as separate school 1894. Courses in Theory of Music, leading, after 5 years' work, to degree of Mus B. Certificate conferred for satisfactory completion of a 3-year course. Instruction in piano, organ, violin, and violoncello. Degree of Mus M conferred for graduate work.

School of Forestry Founded 1900. Pioneer organization in professional study of Forestry giving 2-year course leading to degree of M F.

School of Nursing Founded 1923. A 30 months' course leading to degree of M N.

Finances: University funds, June 30, 1935, $95,838,568.80, income from all sources year ending June 30, 1935, $7,479,211.17, expenditures, $7,479,211.17.

Grounds and Buildings: Total number of buildings, 92. Dormitories for men number about 25. 2 dormitories for women students in the School of Nursing and 2 clubhouses for graduate women students. Notable buildings: The Memorial Quadrangle, comprising Branford and Saybrook Colleges, Collegiate Gothic, James Gamble Rogers, architect. Connecticut Hall. The American Council on Education

HISTORY

The American Council on Education is a unique educational organization. It represents an expression of the peculiar genius of the American educational system, a system without national control, made up of a vast number of autonomous units, each the product of local sacrifice and idealism, but each working voluntarily with all the others for the establishment and enforcement of educational standards.

Since its establishment in 1918, the American Council on Education has been a central organ of cooperation and coordination which, without invading the autonomy of institutions and interests within the American educational system, has promoted common action in matters of common concern. The Council devotes itself to scientific inquiry, to the provision of machinery for consultation, and to the stimulation of experimental activities by institutions and groups of institutions. Through conferences and investigations it seeks to clarify educational issues of national significance, to define problems and to enlist appropriate agencies for their solution. As a result of the exchange of opinion and the discovery of facts it fosters agreements designed to improve educational practice. In these ways, the Council, representing the national educational organizations of the country, acts as a mobilizing force for the energies of the American educational profession.

The foundation of the American Council on Education was laid in January of 1918, when a number of prominent educators, representing the various national educational associations, met in Washington to discuss the possible contribution of the schools and colleges in the national crisis brought on by the war. These men agreed that the situation called for a comprehensive organization to consider the many new and critical problems of the school system and to coordinate the efforts of the numerous associations and institutions that were concerned with education. Hence, they organized in March, 1918, the "Emergency Council on Education," consisting of representatives of national educational associations, with these objectives:

To place the educational resources of the country more completely at the service of the National Government and its departments to the end that, through an understanding cooperation, the patriotic services of the public schools, colleges and universities may be augmented, that a continuous supply of educated men may be obtained, and that a greater effectiveness in meeting the educational problems arising during and following the war may be secured.

That there was a genuine need for such an organization is shown by the large number of services which the Council was called upon immediately to perform. The President of the United States asked the Council for assistance in the nationwide campaign in behalf of American education, the Surgeon General of the United States Army called upon the Council to use its machinery in enlisting ten thousand young women for preliminary training in nursing, the Council of National Defense officially requested the Council to take charge of the visit of the British Educational Mission, the Council was urged to assist in developing closer relationships with French and Spanish educators. These were but a few of the services which the Council undertook during the war-time crisis.

The members of the "Emergency Council on Education" had not proceeded far with their work before they realized that there would be as much need for cooperative endeavor relative to education in time of peace, as in time of war, they also envisaged an agency that would work toward the development of better relations with educational institutions abroad. Consequently, early in July, 1918, the organization changed its name to the American Council on Education.

It was only natural that individual institutions throughout the country should become deeply interested in the activities of this new organization. In order that the American Council might benefit from this interest, the Constitution was amended at the meeting in December, 1918, to provide for the inclusion of institutional members, representing approved colleges, universities, and technological schools, and for the inclusion of associate members, representing organizations with interests related to the work of the Council. Institutions of higher education, as well as the national associations affiliated with the Council, have been loyal and faithful members since that time and have contributed valuable services as well as financial support. The number of members has grown steadily through the years until today 27 constituent members, 317 institutional members, and 23 associate members are actively participating in the work of the Council.

In order that the American Council on Education might truly represent the entire American educational system, the Executive Committee in October, 1935, opened the institutional membership of the Council to the state departments of education of the 48 states, and to the city school systems serving a population of 200,000 or more. These new members will help to bring to the Council the broad experiences and activities of elementary and secondary education in America.

PURPOSE

Obviously it is impossible to enumerate all the many activities in which the American Council on Education has engaged during the last eight-teen years. Founded to meet the needs of education during the war period, the Council has broadened and yet intensified its study of American education in recent years. How inclusive the interests of the Council have become is defined in its aims as now expressed in the Constitution.

The object of the Council shall be to advance American education in any or all of its phases through comprehensive voluntary cooperative action on the part of educational associations, organizations, and institutions and in the fulfillment of that purpose to initiate, promote and carry out such systematic studies, cooperative experiments, conferences, and other similar enterprises as may be required for the public welfare.

It should be emphasized that the American Council on Education is a council, that it is an agency set up by representative leaders of American education to bring together the best minds in the field of education with the hope that out of this council may evolve policies and plans of national significance in the field of education. No longer does the American Council restrict its interests and activities only to the problems of colleges and universities, no longer does it concern itself largely with international aspects of education. As a council it reflects, through its members, the varied and complex ramifications of the American educational system and devotes itself to the progressive development of education at all levels. Indeed, the Council is attempting to reach that goal set for it in 1918 when Dr. Henry Churchill King, then President of Oberlin College, hailed it as "The American Council on Education—the first genuinely representative educational organization of national scope to be formed."

Each organization shall be represented on the Council by three members who shall vote as a unit through a designated person It is recommended that each organization, in the first election following the date of this meeting, elect one member for a term of one year, one for a term of two years, and one for a term of three years, and that all subsequent elections be for terms of three years Elections of new members to the Council shall take effect immediately following such elections Any election to fill a vacancy occurring during the year shall take effect at once, and shall be for the remaining period of the term thus filled

The Council shall report its actions to the several organizations at the close of each year ending April 30, and at such other times as may be desired

Associate Members Associate members shall consist of such organizations having interests related to the work of the Council as may from time to time be elected by the Council Associate members may send one representative each to the meetings of the Council, without right to vote

Institutional Members This group shall consist of colleges, universities and professional and technical schools of similar grade, and of other organizations and institutions of high standing that carry on educational activities or cooperate with educational institutions in improving instruction or administration The conditions of eligibility for institutional membership, both for educational institutions and for other organizations, shall be fixed by the Executive Committee of the Council Institutional members may send one representative each to the meetings of the Council Whenever a vote is taken, if there are negative votes, the institutional members shall be counted separately and no action shall be valid unless supported by a majority of the constituent members present and voting On request of any three members any matter directly affecting institutional members shall be made the subject of a referendum vote by them before final action is taken by the Council

4 DUES The scale of membership fees shall be fixed by the Executive Committee A portion of each membership fee shall be for one or more subscriptions to THE EDUCATIONAL RECORD at $2.00 a year for each subscription, the number of copies to which each member is entitled being fixed by the Executive Committee

5 OFFICERS The Council shall elect a Chairman, a first Vice-Chairman, a second Vice-Chairman, a Secretary, a Treasurer and such other officers as from time to time may seem desirable The Treasurer need not be a member of the Council. All funds for which the Council, or any of its committees, is responsible, shall be received by the Treasurer and shall be disbursed by him under proper authority.

The Council shall also elect a salaried President who shall be the chief executive officer. He shall have general administrative supervision of the affairs of the Council and shall be responsible for the carrying out of such plans and policies as the Council, or its executive committee, may approve. He shall be ex officio a member of the Executive Committee and of all standing committees. He shall report annually to the Council, and shall make such other reports as the Chairman of the Council may request.

All officers, except the President, shall be elected at the Annual Meeting, and their terms of office shall begin immediately following election.

6 EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE There shall be an Executive Committee consisting of eleven members, eight selected from the representatives of the constituent and institutional organizations, and the President, Associate Director, and the United States Commissioner of Education ex officio. The Chairman and Secretary of the Council shall be Chairman and Secretary, respectively, of the Executive Committee. The remaining six members shall be elected by the Council, two at each annual meeting to serve for a three-year term. The Executive Committee shall hold meetings at least quarterly, and shall report its actions to the members of the Council after each meeting.

In case a member of the Executive Committee shall fail to attend (or to designate an alternate) at two meetings of the Executive Committee, he shall cease to be a member thereof. In case of a vacancy on the Executive Committee, the Committee shall have power to fill the vacancy until the next meeting of the Council.

7 PROBLEMS AND PLANS COMMITTEE There shall be a Problems and Plans Committee consisting of twelve members, three of whom shall be elected each year for terms of four years. No member may succeed himself directly. Members of this committee shall be elected by the Council on nominations presented jointly by the Executive Committee and the Problems and Plans Committee.

In case of a vacancy on the Problems and Plans Committee, the Executive Committee shall have power to fill the vacancy until the next Annual Meeting of the Council.

The Problems and Plans Committee shall plan the research activities and other related projects of the Council and shall review continually all projects planned by the Committee and undertaken by the Council.

8 MEETINGS The Annual Meeting of the Council shall be held on the first Friday in May. Special meetings may be called by the Chairman. The Chairman shall call a meeting at any time at the request of representatives of any three constituent organizations.

Written notice of all meetings shall be sent to all members at least two weeks in advance, except in special circumstances, when this provision may be waived by consent of the representatives of two-thirds of the organizations constituting the Council.

Those present at any meeting of which written notice has been duly given, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but no action shall become effective until approved by representatives of a majority of the organizations constituting the Council.

9 BUDGET The Executive Committee shall present a budget each year at the Annual Meeting and no financial obligation shall be incurred by any officer or committee except as authorized by the Council or the Executive Committee. The fiscal year of the Council shall close on April 30.

10 TRAVELING EXPENSES The traveling expenses of the officers and committees may be paid from the funds of the Council.

11 COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS The Council and the Executive Committee may appoint special committees. All committee appointments shall expire April 30, with right to reappointment. The members of committees may be selected from the members of any institutions associated with one of the organizations constituting the Council. Chairmen of committees shall be invited to sit with the Council, without right to vote.

12 AUTHORITY OF COMMITTEES Final responsibility for all undertakings rests with the Council. The Executive Committee shall act for the Council between meetings, but shall refer all questions involving new policy to the members of the Council for letter ballot before taking final action. Committees are not authorized to commit the Council to any undertaking not specifically authorized by the Council or its Executive Committee.

13 AMENDMENTS This Constitution may be amended at any time by vote of three-fourths of the organizations constituting the Council.

Written notice of any proposed change in the Constitution shall be sent to all constituent members of the Council at least two weeks before the meeting at which the proposed change is to be considered.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF JUNIOR COLLEGES

The American Association of Junior Colleges is not a standardizing agency, except in those territories where there are no accrediting agencies for the junior college. The standards of the Association have been set up to indicate what the junior college should be at the present stage of its development. The standards of the American Association of Junior Colleges, 1935, are as follows

JUNIOR COLLEGE STANDARDS

1 Organization The junior college, in its present development, comprises different forms of organization. First, a two-year institution embracing two years of collegiate work in advance of the completion of an accredited secondary school course. The two-year curriculum of this type shall be equivalent in prerequisites, methods and thoroughness to that offered in the first two years of an accredited four-year college. Second, an institution embracing two years of standard collegiate work as defined above, integrated with one or two contiguous years of fully accredited high-school work administered as a single unit.

2 Entrance Requirements The two-year junior college should require for admission the satisfactory completion of a four-year course with at least 15 standard units from a secondary school approved by some recognized accrediting agency. Three of these units shall be English. The four-year junior college should require eight standard units for entrance and the three-year type, twelve standard units. In any case the major portion of the units accepted for admission should be definitely correlated with the curriculum to which the student is admitted.

For entrance to terminal or finishing courses in the two-year junior college or the upper division of the four-year junior college the equivalent of fifteen units should be required. This equivalent may be demonstrated by entrance examinations, ability tests, or by the proven ability of the student to profit by the instruction offered.

3 Graduation Requirements For graduation the student, in addition to meeting the entrance requirements for the particular type of curriculum he is pursuing, must complete, during the last two years of the course, 60 semester hours or 30 session hours (in addition to physical education) of credit with such scholastic qualitative requirements as are adapted by each institution to its conditions

A session hour is defined as a credit given for work in a class which meets for at least one sixty-minute period (including ten minutes for change of classes) weekly for lecture, recitation, or test for a session of 36 weeks (including not over two weeks for all holidays and vacations) Three hours of laboratory work should count as the equivalent of one hour of lecture, recitation, or test

4 Permanent Records Kept A system of permanent records showing clearly all credits (including entrance records) of each student shall be carefully kept The original credentials filed from other institutions shall be retained

5 Number of College Departments The junior college shall offer instruction in at least five separate departments (e.g., English, social science, mathematics, foreign language, and natural science) There shall not be fewer than five teachers employed specifically for instruction in the upper level of the junior college, giving the major portion of their time to such instruction

6 Faculty The training of the members of the faculty in the academic department should include at least one year of graduate study majoring in the subject to be taught, together with evidences of successful experience or efficiency in teaching A junior college should be judged largely by the scholarly achievement and successful experience of its teachers

(With regard to the average number of class hours per week for each junior college teacher, this subject is being given special study under the direction of the Committee on Research, consequently, no definite standard is proposed at this time)

7 Size of Classes (This subject is being given special study under the direction of the Committee on Research, consequently, no definite standard is proposed at this time)

8 Registration No junior college shall be accredited that has fewer than 50 students in its two upper years

9 Support The minimum income for the operating educational expenses of the junior college should be $20,000 for the two-year junior college or $30,000 for the four-year type, of which ordinarily not less than $10,000 should be derived from stable sources such as permanent endowment, public or church support

A junior college that does not have such support from endowment, church, state, or public sources must show, for a period of three or more consecutive years immediately preceding its application for accrediting, that its charges and expenditures are such as to show a minimum average annual net surplus of $10,000

These amounts are understood to be the minimum for the smallest junior colleges Increase in student body, and faculty, should be accompanied by a corresponding increase of income from stable sources The financial status of each junior college is to be given serious consideration in rating its efficiency

10 Library For the smallest junior college there should be a carefully chosen library, adequately cataloged, modern and well distributed with moderate duplication, of not less than 4,000 volumes as an initial collection, exclusive of public documents, selected with special reference to college work, and with a well-selected list of current periodicals and magazines

The library shall be in charge of a full-time librarian with the same qualifications and educational background as a teacher in the junior college, including from 24 to 30 semester hours in an approved library school or equivalent in specific training for library An adequate number of assistants shall be provided

11 Laboratories The laboratories shall be adequately equipped for individual work on the part of each student, and an annual income shall be provided It is recommended that the school with limited income be equipped for good work in one or two sciences and not attempt work in others

12 Material Equipment The location and construction of the building, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, and the nature of the laboratories, corridors, closets, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for teachers and students

13 Curriculum and Spirit of Administration The character of the curriculum, the efficiency of instruction, the system of keeping students' records, the spirit and atmosphere of the institution, the nature of its publicity, and its standing in the educational world shall be factors in determining its rating

14 Student Activities Athletics, amusements, fraternities and sororities, and all other student activities shall be administered under faculty supervision and shall not occupy an undue place in the life of the college

In judging the standing of a junior college, account shall be taken of the existence of and the influence upon the students of such student activities as student government, student publications, literary societies, debating teams, current events, scientific, musical, artistic, and foreign clubs, religious and social service organizations

NATIONAL CATHOLIC EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION

In 1923 the National Catholic Educational Association voted to adopt the standards recommended by the American Council on Education "with the explicit understanding that Standard 4, relating to the minimum annual operating income for accredited colleges, shall be so interpreted and accepted as to mean that in the case of Catholic institutions conducted and maintained by religious associations, financial support or contributed services equivalent in value to the endowment specified are to be regarded as substitutes to the amount of not less than $25,000 where services so contributed are equivalent to that amount. Ordinarily this would be provided for by a college with eight professors engaged solely in college work."

The association has now prepared a list of universities and colleges that meet these standards. The Committee on Accreditation of the College Department has been making a special study of the accrediting activity of the association. The report of the committee was published in the August 1935 issue of the N C E A Bulletin.

The Directory of Catholic Colleges and Schools, published in 1932 by the Department of Education of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, is a report of a survey in 1930. No edition was published in 1934. The Catholic school statistics for 1933-34 were as follows: In 10,428 Catholic educational institutions in the United States there were 85,809 instructors and 2,571,806 pupils. Of colleges there were 174, in which there were 113,230 students, 82,315 in the 75 colleges for men and 30,915 in the 99 colleges for women. In the colleges for men there were 2,235 religious teachers and 4,329 lay teachers. In these colleges primarily for men, 25,237 women students were registered. In the women's colleges were 2,391 religious teachers and 802 lay instructors.

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS FOR NEGROES

The Association of Colleges for Negro Youth in session at Talladega College, April 1933, voted to become the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for Negro Youth of the Southern Region and appointed a committee of 15 to meet in Washington and draft a Constitution for the new association to be presented at the Atlanta meeting, December 4 and 5, 1934.

At the Atlanta meeting representatives from 65 colleges and secondary schools for Negroes, most of which were approved by the Southern Association, discussed at length the Constitution, proposed by the Committee of Fifteen. With minor revisions the Constitution was adopted and the new association definitely launched.

Excerpts from the Constitution and By-laws will indicate the program the new association will attempt to execute.

Name The Association shall be called the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for Negroes.

Purpose The purpose of this Association shall be to develop the colleges and secondary schools for Negroes and maintain helpful relations between them.

Membership Membership in this association shall be limited to colleges and universities, junior colleges, and secondary schools which are approved by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Colleges and schools located in areas outside the southern region may be admitted to membership in this Association, provided they are fully accredited by the recognized regional association of the area in which they are located.

The Association shall maintain a standing commission on higher institutions and a standing commission on secondary schools. The commission on higher institutions shall consist of 12 persons, eight of whom shall be from secondary schools. No institution shall have more than one member on the commission. All members shall be elected by the Association on nomination of the executive committee. The terms of all members shall be for three years or until their successors are elected. The election shall be so ordered that one-third of the members shall be elected each year.

The commission on secondary schools shall consist of one secondary school person selected from each state within the southern region and four representatives from higher institutions, elected by the Association on nomination of the executive committee. The terms of office shall be for three years or until successors are elected. The election shall be so ordered that one-third of the members shall be elected each year.

The commission on higher institutions and on secondary schools shall elect their own officers, appoint necessary committees, develop programs for discussion and research, etc.

The Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for Negroes is not attempting to rate the member institutions, that function is left to the Southern Association which for several years has been rating Negro colleges of the southern region. It seeks rather to build a strong organization of accredited colleges for Negroes to deal with their own peculiar problems and through the commissions on higher and secondary education to direct significant studies and stimulate the high-efficiency in education for Negroes.

The following is a list of Negro colleges and secondary schools approved by the Southern Association.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

HISTORY*

The Library of Congress was founded in the city of Washington, April 24, 1800. From this date until 1897, it was housed in special rooms in the Capitol. The first librarian, John Beckley of Virginia, was appointed by President Jefferson in 1802. During the war of 1812-14, the Library was partially destroyed by fire, August 24, 1814, and in 1815 replaced by the private library of ex-President Jefferson. The second and third librarians were Patrick Magruder (1807-15) and George Watterston (1815-29). The latter introduced the first catalog and classification system adopted by Jefferson in his private library.

Again in 1851, during the administration of the fourth librarian, John S. Meehan (1829-61), the Library was visited by a disastrous fire, destroying a large part of its valuable collection, including a part of the Jefferson books.

In 1846 with the founding of the Smithsonian Institution, and under the direction of the first secretary, Joseph Henry, a large collection of scientific and learned society publications was gathered. These publications in 1866 were transferred to the Library of Congress, and in 1900 the Smithsonian Division was separately organized.

In 1861 the fifth librarian, John C. Stephenson, was appointed and served until 1864. He was followed by Answorth Rand Spofford (1864-97), under whom the Library of Congress terminated its occupancy of rooms in the Capitol.

The first librarian of the new period which began with the occupancy of a separate building in 1897 was John Russell Young, who served from that year until his death on January 17, 1899. On April 5, 1899, the present librarian, Dr. Herbert Putnam, assumed the duties of his office, under him there is now a staff of 769 assistants (exclusive of the building force).

The Library building, since 1897, has been much enlarged. Two of the courts have been filled with additional book stacks and part of another court with an auditorium for chamber music, the gift of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge. An addition to the east front was completed in 1934, and an annex, doubling the book capacity of the present building, is now in process of construction on a site directly east of and immediately adjacent to it. The annex will house also certain of the activities now conducted in the main building.

COLLECTIONS

On June 30, 1935, the Library, now regarded as the largest in the world, contained 4,992,114 printed books and pamphlets, 1,337,415 maps and views, 1,131,747 volumes and pieces of music, 534,642 prints, and manuscripts too numerous to make a numerical statement feasible.

The book collections, encyclopaedic in content, are strongest in history, public law and legislation, public documents of the United States and foreign governments, the political and social sciences, literature and language, science and technology, bibliography and library science, and also in the special fields, indicated in the paragraphs below. Through the Smithsonian Institution extensive files of foreign learned societies are received. Through the international exchange service about 40,000 volumes officially published by foreign governments are now received annually. Under the operation of the copyright law (chiefly since 1870) the most comprehensive collection in existence of products of the American press has been brought together through the transfer to the Library proper not of all articles deposited by copyright but of a carefully selected portion of those deemed worthy of preservation.

The special book collections include the library of Thomas Jefferson, the Peter Force collection of Americana, 60,000 books and pamphlets, the Toner collection of medicine and American local history, presented by Dr. Joseph M. Toner in 1882, consisting of over 27,000 books and 12,000 pamphlets and periodicals, the Yudin collection, acquired in 1907, 80,000 volumes chiefly in the Russian language, particularly valuable for the history of Russia, Siberia, and Alaska, the Japanese collection, 20,000 volumes, Huitfeldt-Kaas collection of Scandinavian literature, 5,000 volumes, the Weber collection of Sanskrit literature, 4,000 volumes, the Hoes pamphlets relating to the Spanish-American War, the Chinese collection of 165,000 volumes (fascicles) acquired for the most part since 1906

The Collection* of John Boyd Thacher, bequeathed to the Library by Mrs Thacher in 1927, is especially noteworthy European incunabula, 840 titles (929 volumes) printed before the year 1501, works relating to Columbus and the discovery of America, bibliography, and the French Revolution, 2,400 printed volumes, "Outlines of the French Revolution told in autographs" (a collection of letters and other manuscripts), 1,460 pieces, and autographs and other documents of crowned heads and other European personages, 1,365 pieces.

The Vollbehr collection of 3,000 incunabula, including one of three extant perfect vellum copies of the Gutenberg 42-line Bible, acquired by purchase under the Act of July 3, 1930, at a cost of $1,500,000, brought the total collection of incunabula up to 4,545 pieces (since increased to 4,653 pieces), placing the Library of Congress among the first dozen of the world's principal owners of Fifteenth Century books

For descriptions of the yearly accessions the Annual Reports of the Librarian should be consulted

DIVISIONS

Within the organization of the Library are the various divisions, which, not taking into account those primarily concerned with the acquisition of materials and with the processes followed prior to their use, are to be named as follows

Division of Manuscripts Manuscript materials not classified as maps, music, or prints, and broadsides are in this division There is a special reading room for the consultation of manuscripts, in which is placed the card index to the collection The collection, far the largest in America, embracing some millions of pieces, includes (1) papers of many American public men, including those of nearly all the Presidents, (2) those of the Continental Congress and many papers of colonies and states, (3) more than two million pages of reproductions of documents in foreign archives and libraries relating to American history, obtained through the munificence of Mr John D Rockefeller, Jr, and (4) a small number of mediæval and oriental manuscripts A descriptive handbook of the collections was published in 1918,† calendars have been published of several of the groups of papers, and the Journals of the Continental Congress are being published by the Library ‡

Manuscripts are fully open to inspection, copying, or photographing, except in cases where restrictions have been imposed by donors or depositors They are consulted by readers only under the supervision of attendants

Division of Documents The function of this division is to acquire, arrange and make available for use the publications of governments, national, local, and municipal, and of quasi-public bodies, such as commercial organizations, international congresses, and the like This division has charge of the exchange of publications of the Federal Government for those of other nations Since January, 1910, this division has edited the Monthly Check-list of State Publications which are received currently The Library's collection of governmental publications, federal, state, and foreign, is the most extensive in the world

Law Library The Law Library of Congress is the only general legal research library maintained by the Federal Government In addition to serving the Congress and the Supreme Court it is used extensively by the several executive departments, the governmental agencies, the diplomatic corps, members of the bench and bar, and by individual investigators of legal subjects

The Law Library contains at present 381,232 volumes These are located in the Library of Congress building, at the Capitol, and in the new Supreme Court building Because of the restricted accommodations, the use of the working-library at the Capitol is limited to members of Congress, their secretaries, and officials of the executive departments and agencies In the Supreme Court building there are two libraries, the one for the exclusive use of the justices, the other for members of the Supreme Court bar

A large proportion of the Law Library collections is located in the Library of Congress building Here are kept full sets of both federal and state session laws, statutes and reports, a practically complete set of the original records and briefs of the United States Supreme Court, the collections of bar associations reports, opinions of attorneys general, legal directories, treatises, reports of American and foreign trials and legal periodicals The collections are strong in foreign law, including foreign session laws, codes, statutes, judicial decisions, and groups of foreign legal treatises. The Law Library contains also extensive collections on constitutional law, international law, Roman law, canon law, the history and philosophy of law and jurisprudence, and in various other recognized branches of law. The Law Library possesses an outstanding collection of Year Books and other early English material, and approximately 450 incunabula.

Through the cooperation of lawyers and the law associations the Law Library has greatly expanded its activities and increased the number of its volumes. The American Bar Association and other national associations have standing committees which favor "the continued development of the facilities of the law library of Congress to the end that it may become the Nation's principal repository of legal literature and sources." Since 1933 an organization known as the Friends of the Law Library of Congress has been active in stimulating interest in the Library among American lawyers and jurists by urging the importance of its continuous development through a discriminating increase in acquisitions and appropriate additions of carefully selected experts to the staff.

Division of Maps. Maps, atlases, and parts of the Library's geographical collections are in the custody of this division. A special reading room is maintained where these materials may be consulted. The collection of 1,337,415 maps and views (as of June 30, 1935) is richest in cartographic representations of the United States and other portions of the American continents, and includes 2,000 manuscript maps. The atlases comprise 10,000 titles. In the globe collection are such items as Vopel's manuscript 4-inch Armillary sphere made in 1543, and a set of the gores of Coronelli's printed 43-inch globe published in 1688. Among the map treasures are the Rochambeau, Faden, and Howe Collections (238 maps), the Harrisse Collection (about 600 maps), the Lowery Collection (306 maps), the Kohl Collection (474 maps), the Chinese, Korean, and Japanese maps and atlases (115 items), 90 copies of Ptolemy's geography, the atlases of Ortelius (64 editions), Blaeu (27 editions in 82 volumes), Mercator (38 editions), 11 portolan charts, 2 portolan atlases, 19 copies of the Atlantic Neptune, 1774-81 (1,369 charts and views), an original manuscript of L'Enfant's plan of the city of Washington, 1791, L'Enfant's "map of dotted lines," August 19, 1791, Champlain's manuscript map of parts of New England and Canada, 1608, 7 of Vingboons' manuscript maps showing New Netherlands, Florida, and California, 1639, 13 manuscript maps attributed to Lewis and Clark, a score of original editions of Mitchell's "Map of British and French Possessions in North America," 1755-92, 7 manuscript maps made or annotated by George Washington, and a number that belonged to other Presidents of the United States.

Division of Music. The Division of Music has the custody of the collection of music (both music and books on music) numbering 1,131,747 volumes and pieces on June 30, 1935, the yearly accessions average 15,000 items. These comprise copyright deposits, purchases and gifts. Until 1902 this material consisted mainly of copyright deposits. They continue to form the bulk of the collection which includes many hundreds of orchestral scores of operas, choral and symphonic works, first editions of the "modern classics" (such as Brahms, Debussy, Richard Strauss, Stravinsky and many others). Quantitatively, the collection ranks with the great national collections of Europe. As regards the musical publications of the last 50 years, it is without a rival anywhere.

The collection now comprises a fairly representative lot of original manuscripts of the masters, such as Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Weber, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schumann, Liszt, Wagner, Brahms, Bruckner, Tchaikovsky, Debussy, Franck, and many others.

Instances of generous contributions to the music collection are not lacking. Organizations as well as individuals have shown that the public interest in the growth of the collection and the realization of its importance to the nation are widespread. These gifts range in size from a single sheet of music to the "Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation" (for certain activities in the production and performance of music) and the chamber music auditorium given by Mrs. Coolidge, who has also given to the Music Division her collection of holograph music and her extensive correspondence with many prominent musicians of the day. Among the holographs are compositions in the handwriting of Loeffler, Pierné, Schoenberg, Ravel, Alfano, Bridge, Respighi, Bloch, Pizzetti, Malipiero, Casella, Bliss, Milhaud, Goossens, and Hindemith.

Music publishers throughout the country have been very generous in turning over the composers' holograph scores of many interesting and important works issued by them. In the archives of the Music Division repose as gifts the original manuscripts of such works as MacDowell's "Indian Suite," Chadwick's "Symphonic Sketches," Converse's "Mystic Trumpeter," Loeffler's

"Pagan Poem," Horatio Parker's "Hora Novissima," Arthur Foote's "Omar Khayyam Suite," Nevin's "The Rosary," Henry F. Gilbert's "Comedy Overture," Charles T. Griffes's "Pleasure Dome of Kubla Khan," landmarks along the progress of music in America, and recently the Library has become the custodian of more than two-thirds, including the most important, of the manuscript scores of Victor Herbert.

The Albert Schatz collection of opera librettos comprises about 12,000 items, this purchase, aided by several smaller ones, has made the libretto collection the largest in the world. The extensive collection of opera scores has been repeatedly increased by en bloc purchases, such as that of the Martorell collection (1910), containing over 1,300 items. It is now probably the most representative one in existence.

The music collection as it stands is singularly well equipped to serve the student or investigator. The equipment is not restricted to the published records of music as a science and an art, it offers abundant source material and unique facilities for original research.

Division of Fine Arts. The collection of prints of all sorts, including photographs and photomechanical reproductions, as well as etchings, engravings, etc., and the books and periodicals devoted to the various fine arts (amounting in 1935 to 65,720 items) are in charge of this division. The most noteworthy special collections received by gift are the Gardiner Greene Hubbard collection of engravings, of which a catalog was issued in 1905,* originally consisting of 2,707 pieces, but yearly increased by purchases from an endowment fund left for that purpose, the George Lothrop Bradley print collection of 1,980 pieces, the Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell collection of Whistleriana and Pennelliana which includes over 100 original sketches, a like number of etchings and nearly 1,000 lithographs by Joseph Pennell, the C. L. Fieer bequest of about 1,000 prints, the Crosby S. Noyes† collection of Japanese prints and illustrated books, the Mrs. E. Crane Chadbourne collection of Japanese prints depicting Europeans shortly after the opening of Japan to the outside world, the Vollhehr gift of 20,398 wood-engravings from books of the 15th-18th centuries throughout Europe and 11,005 printers' and publishers' marks, from the former collection of Dr. Schreiber of Potsdam, and the Alexander Wilson Drake collection of four hundred and ninety-eight American wood-engravings of the late 19th century. There is also a large general collection acquired by purchase and copyright deposit which brings the total number of prints of all classes in the Division to 534,642 (June 30, 1935).

The Pictorial Archives of Early American Architecture form a branch of this division of the Library. Here photographic negatives of early buildings are being assembled for purposes of historical and architectural study and for supplying prints where desired. There are now about 5,200 negatives in the collection. To this the drawings and photographic negatives of the Historic American Buildings Survey, initiated by the National Park Service, are now being added. This addition consists to date of nearly 8,000 sheets of measured drawings and 6,500 negatives recording about 1,400 buildings.

Division of Semitic Literature. The Semitic Division contains over 40,000 books in Hebrew, Yiddish and cognate languages, the greater part of which were collected by the late Mr. Ephraim Dearnard. Two collections totaling about 15,000 volumes were presented to the Library in 1912 and 1914 by the late Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, and another two amounting to about 6,000 were purchased by the Library from the same collector in 1917 and 1921. Yearly accessions by purchase, gift, exchange and copyright have increased the number to the present total. The collection of Hebrews covering ancient and modern Hebrew literature ranks favorably with that of any of the great national libraries, both in quantity and quality. It includes a considerable number of incunabula, early prints and rarities.

Division of Slavic Literature. The Slavic collection, exclusive of the books in non-Slavic languages in the general classification of the Library, contains 143,000 volumes. The private library of Gennadius Vasilievich Yudin of Krasnoarsk, Siberia, acquired in 1907, is the foundation of the collection.

Division of Orientalia. Since 1928 the Chinese and Japanese sections have been administered as a distinct division with a permanent staff of western and oriental assistants. This collection was begun by the first American minister to China, the Honorable Caleb Cushing, who brought home about 2,500 selected works for the Library. The Honorable W. W. Rockhill presented more than 6,000 volumes, and the Chinese government presented 7,000. The pre-eminence of the collection is due, however, to additions in excess of 50,000 volumes selected for the Library since 1914 by Dr. Walter T. Swingle of the Department of Agriculture, and since 1928 by the present chief of the division, Dr A W Hummel It now includes upwards of 165,000 volumes.

Japanese books to the number of 20,000 volumes, selected in the beginning by Dr Asakawa of Yale University with the assistance of other Japanese and western authorities, make a good working collection for students of Japanese history, literature and institutions The Division of Orientalia also administers smaller collections, in Korean, Tibetan, Manchu, Mongolian, and other Far Eastern languages

Division of Aeronautics This division has a twofold function first, to collect and serve to readers all available aeronautic literature, secondly, to assist in its interpretation Organized in 1930, the division now has some 21,000 volumes—the world's largest collection on aeronautics and regarded as comprising most of the extant literature All of the current periodicals on this subject are available, and all the latest books In addition to the purchases made from the Daniel Guggenheim fund, much valuable and unique material is acquired by gift The collection is especially rich in original source material, and in confidential documents eventually to be released The staff answers manifold technical questions, sometimes by personal conference or by written report, sometimes by furnishing ample bibliographies or by furnishing reference material, sometimes by making researches with the reader Special investigators are given such aid as is commonly rendered to advanced students in graduate universities

Smithsonian Deposit In 1900 the Smithsonian Division was organized as the scientific unit of the Library of Congress In 1866, by an act of Congress, passed at the request of Secretary Joseph Henry and the Board of Regents, the Smithsonian Institution transferred its library of 40,000 volumes to the custody of the Library of Congress This was the beginning of the Smithsonian deposit

The total number of volumes in the deposit (1935) is approximately 650,000 and of these about 130,500 are shelved in this division, the others by subject throughout the classification This collection is increased each year by publications from most of the learned societies and institutions of the world sent in exchange for those of the Smithsonian Institution This supplements the regular scientific collection of the Library of Congress which is increased annually by purchase, gift, and copyright Both groups together constitute one of the largest and most important collections of source material of this character in existence, and number among their sets of memoirs and transactions those of many of the oldest scientific academies and societies.

Because of the size of its collection and its bibliographical apparatus, the division offers rich opportunity for research For the convenience of advanced research scholars it is equipped with private alcoves and desks, for which there is an increasing demand

The Smithsonian Division in its activities cooperates with all of the United States Government scientific bureaus, the National Research Council, the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and all of the larger university and public libraries

Periodical Division This division handles all periodicals as received, and prepares the completed volumes for binding The total number of periodical files received is in excess of 8,600 Over 900 newspapers are currently received, including 143 foreign newspapers, 329 are bound and shelved The files of American newspapers of the eighteenth century are perhaps the largest in America The reading room for periodicals has seats for 200 readers, who have direct access to the current issue of about 316 newspapers, and over 1,500 magazines which are on file in this room

Card Division This division conducts a card distribution service whereby extra copies of the cards primarily printed for the catalogs of the Library of Congress are distributed to some 6,000 libraries, firms and individuals who purchase them as a means of cataloging their collections or as material for bibliographies The cards may be ordered by author and title, by number, by series, and by subject Standing orders by subject and series are accepted so that special libraries and specialists can obtain all issued on their specialty The stock of cards now covers about 1,400,000 titles, with a total of over 90,000,000 cards The sales to subscribers amount to over $200,000 annually As a part of the system and as an aid to investigation, full sets of the cards are located in 70 large libraries, including 17 in foreign countries To make its stock of cards more complete about 10,000 cards are printed each year for books (not in the Library of Congress) in other governmental libraries of the United States and in other American libraries highly specialized in content The work incident to the printing of these outside cards is now attended to by the Library of Congress Cooperative Cataloging and Classification Service

The Union Catalog Greatly expanded under a grant made by Mr John D Rockefeller, Jr., the Union Catalog now contains approximately 9,000,000 cards, representing from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 books significant for purposes of scholarship, and indicates the libraries in which they are to be found, in addition, the catalog contains from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 cards naming additional locations for these books. Auxiliary to the Union Catalog are supplementary catalogs containing entries in specialized fields. Catalogs on cards are maintained of the contents of the British Museum and of the Vatican Library, and bibliographical information in the sciences is furnished by the catalog of the Concilium Bibliographicum. These auxiliary catalogs contain approximately 5,000,000 cards. These various catalogs in combination constitute the most extensive bibliographical repertory in the world. In connection with it is a catalog of about 5,000 special collections contained in other libraries. The Union Catalog is extensively used in bibliographical work and in cataloging, and in connection with interlibrary loans, and is also used in connection with cooperative cataloging. It is kept up to date through cooperative arrangements with other American libraries.

Division of Bibliography This division deals with inquiries involving bibliographical research and compiles lists of references on topics of current interest,* particularly those pending in Congress. The division furnishes references in the case of numerous inquiries received by mail, and is also frequently called into service by members of Congress.

Legislative Reference Service This division furnishes information to Congress, its committees and members, on subjects likely to come up for legislative action in either house. It collects, classifies and indexes material bearing on public affairs, and on occasion prepares extensive digests and special studies and reports on public questions. While under the law the Service can only carry on its activities for the use of Congress, the studies having once been made are made accessible to other investigators, if such use does not interfere with the service to Congress.

The organization of the Service reflects, in a broad way, quite accurately the character of the inquiries submitted, and of the material handled, and so we have

(a) The American law section, subdivided into the Federal law section, and the State law section, which index currently the Federal and the State laws, and prepare studies and digests in their respective fields

(b) The Foreign law section, including international law, which indexes, translates, and digests as needed the laws of other countries

(c) The Economic section, including statistics and history, which collects, classifies, and indexes current miscellaneous material. The file of clippings maintained by the Economic section serves as an excellent reflector of public opinion on topics of the day

Reading Room The Main Reading Room is in the center of the building. It has, when chairs additional to the fixed seating are used, accommodations for nearly 300 readers. On the top-most decks of the northeast and southeast bookstacks there are 54 study rooms (to which 172 will be added when the Annex is completed). These rooms are used for group research and for conference, and provide accommodations for investigators doing advanced work requiring exceptional apparatus and the opportunity for dictation. On certain of the upper decks of the two bookstacks just mentioned, and in the gallery of the Main Reading Room and in other places near it, are upwards of 200 study tables where the students to whom they are assigned have the privilege of reserving books and may carry on their work with freedom from interruption. For other workers whose needs do not require the use of a study table, shelves are provided in one of the stacks where their books may be reserved—there are 50 of these now in use. Within the bookstacks desk space is reserved for those wishing to work near their materials.

Certain of the more special collections described in the preceding paragraphs are administered by the Reading Room which, excepting for the books dealing with music and the fine arts (Classes M and N), administers also the books in the general classification of the Library, numbering in volumes approximately as follows: Class A (polygraphy), 141,100, B-BJ (philosophy), 41,500, BL-BX (religion), 153,500, C-D (history, exclusive of American), 266,900, E-F (American history), 220,400, G (geography), 53,900, H-J (social and political sciences), 797,700, L (education), 134,900, P (language and literature), 306,600, PZ (fiction in English), 125,900, Q (science), 244,700, R (medicine), 99,900, S (agriculture), 113,100, T (technology), 215,200, U (military science), 45,100, V (naval science), 32,400, Z (bibliography), 140,900.

The galleries in the Reading Room contain a reference collection of over 35,000 volumes of the serial documents of the United States Government, to which there is immediate access. A collection of upwards of 69,000 rare volumes (first editions, etc.) is available to all readers having serious needs. The card catalogs of the Library are on the floor of the Reading Room, the Union Catalog is immediately adjacent to it. Research scholars who wish to gather an extended bibliography of their subjects may do so by purchasing cards through the Card Division.* Photo-reproduction of rare books and manuscripts can also be had at cost upon application to the Librarian of Congress. Scholarship is further assisted by the system of interlibrary loans.

The Library annually expends an appropriation (now $175,000) for the supply to adult readers of books in braille and discs constituting the so-called "talking books," and it maintains also a general service of books for the blind and is an informational center as to undertakings in their behalf.

SERVICE

The Library, under the Act of April 24, 1800, is organically, as the name implies, the Library of Congress. As such, its primary service is to Congress. By extension, its range of service, at an early date, came to include the Executive Departments and the governmental establishment in all its branches. Under the present direction, the Library of Congress, still retaining all its original functions, has come to be the National Library of the United States, serving Congress, the governmental establishment in all its branches, and the public at large.

"CHAIRS" AND CONSULTANTS

The elaborate establishment and organization of the Library obviously present a special opportunity (1) for the systematic development of the collections in fields which the governmental appropriations cannot reach, and (2) for a service by a personnel that shall include men definitely educated in the science, or cultivated in the art, involved, with the equipment to teach in it, or to pursue research in it, but who find a larger interest in interpreting the literature of it to the investigator, the student, and the public at large. To serve these ends, the Library now has five "Chairs" provided by endowment, each held by the Chief of an existing Division (Music, Fine Arts, Manuscripts, Aeronautics, Maps), and also a group of specialists (consultants) as named below under the heading "Library Staff," whose association with the Library is made possible by gifts from non-governmental sources, and who, unlike the incumbents of the "Chairs," are without administrative responsibility. The function of these two groups is best understood if their joint membership is regarded as constituting a sort of "Faculty," assisting in the scientific development of the collections, in furnishing expert counsel within highly specialized fields of knowledge, and in serving as a "liaison" between the resources of the Library and those pursuing intensive research.

FINANCE

The appropriations made by Congress for the construction of the present building and its successive enlargements, together with the authorizations which it has made of expenditures for the construction of the Annex, including the appropriations for the site of each, come to a total of $18,650,000. The ordinary appropriations of Congress for the maintenance of the Library and increase of the collections, including the maintenance and operations of the building, are now in excess of $2,000,000 annually (for the fiscal year 1935-36, $2,724,567 17). Over $500,000 of this is, however, offset by receipts covered into the Treasury from copyright fees and from the sale of printed cards. The Act of March 3, 1925, creating the Library of Congress Trust Fund Board, which is authorized "to accept, receive, hold, and administer such gifts or bequests of personal property for the benefit of, or in connection with, the Library, its collections, or its services, as may be approved by the board and by the Joint Committee on the Library," has resulted in the gifts of trust funds now amounting to $782,000, the income of which is applicable for the purposes defined by the donors. In addition, the Library of Congress, from time to time, receives gifts of money for specific purposes. During the year ending October 1, 1935, gifts of the kind amounted to nearly $100,000.

SPECIAL LIBRARIES

Special libraries in the United States have had an extraordinary growth during the last two decades. The Special Libraries Association, founded in July, 1909, at a meeting called by the Merchants' Association of New York and the Business Branch of the Newark Public Library, at first had 50 members. In 1935 the membership exceeded 1,800, affiliated through 16 chapters. These libraries represent the efforts of business and professional men, industrialists, scientists, educators, and administrators to make available immediately information of importance in the development of their varied fields.

Fourteen hundred and seventy-five such libraries have been described in the third edition of Special Libraries Directory of the United States and Canada, 1935, compiled by a Special Committee and published by the Special Libraries Association, 345 Hudson Street, New York.

Through institutional, active, and associate memberships, contacts are maintained in "Putting Knowledge to Work" by means of National Committees on Classification, Duplicate Exchange of books and pamphlets, Employment, Methods, Publications, and such other activities as may be of assistance. Divisions, covering subject interest or type of organization served, are also actively maintained under the following group leadership: Biological Sciences, Civic-Social, Commerce, Financial, Insurance, Museum, Newspaper, Public Business Librarians, Science-Technology, and University and College Departmental Librarians.

Specialized reference tools and directories are printed frequently, as well as the official organ, Special Libraries, published ten times a year, and a periodical sponsored by the Association entitled, Technical Book Review Index, also issued ten times a year.

Appendix IV

The Brookings Institution

The Brookings Institution of Washington, D C., incorporated on December 8, 1927, amalgamates into a single foundation the Institute for Government Research (established in 1916), the Institute of Economics (established in 1922) and the training functions formerly carried on by the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government. The research activities of the Institution, though now coordinated into a single cooperative pattern, naturally reflect something of the distinct origin of the constituent units.

A large part of the research conducted by the Institute for Government Research, for instance, consists of field work of a very practical character. To an increasing extent this Institution is being called upon to make surveys, with suggestions for desirable reforms, of the administrative methods of state governments. The staff members assigned to this duty are in the position of applying tested principles of government to concrete problems and conditions which must first be examined in detail.

Similarly, the Institute of Economics, in its studies of current economic problems, and its collaboration with official and unofficial agencies directly concerned with these problems, is continuously engaged in research activities which partake of the nature of "applied" rather than "pure" science. The increasing demands on the Institution for advice and assistance during the depression period have tended to strengthen this highly practical side of its work.

At the same time there is no tendency to curtail either the quality or the quantity of pure research done by the two Institutes. Most of their staff members are continuously engaged on approved research projects undertaken without regard to the existence of a popular demand for studies on these subjects. The fact that the research program is carefully planned, however, is attested by the seemingly extraordinary timeliness of many of the Brookings studies. It is not due to accident that numerous research studies begun when the subject seemed of little popular interest have reached completion at a time when the matter under discussion is of public moment.

The cooperative planning which is a characteristic of research by the Institution's staff is reflected in the general program laid down for the Fellows of the Institution. About 20 of these Fellowships are granted annually, the normal tenure being for a scholastic year. Selection of candidates is to some extent determined by consideration of whether the research subject offered for approval fits readily into the Institution's general program. This is the more important since each Fellow is under the general supervision of a staff adviser who seeks to keep the student in touch with living as well as with library material. The social facilities of the new building of the Brookings Institution on Jackson Place, were to a considerable extent planned with a view to forwarding a continuous collaboration between Research Fellows, staff members, visiting scholars, and technicians from the various governmental and private agencies in Washington.

The training work of the Brookings Institution is not of the normal postgraduate character, since many of the Fellows already hold the doctor's degree, while others have completed the classroom requirements for the doctorate. The intention is not to compete with the universities in training for the doctorate, which the Brookings Institution rarely grants, but rather to supplement such training by offering to especially qualified persons certain unique facilities for additional research experience. The position of the Fellows has been aptly compared with that of medical interns, since the objective in both cases is the acquisition of practical experience rather than formal instruction and academic supervision.

It is not always possible, nor would it be desirable, to draw a sharp line of demarcation between the research work done by the Brookings Institution on request of outside agencies, that resulting from the initiative of its permanent staff, and that which springs from a training function which has been called "supergraduate" in character. These phases of the Institution's work stimulate, supplement, and support one another and lend, it is believed, a mature and well-rounded character to its research which would not otherwise be attainable.

The administrative officers of the Institution are Harold G. Moulton, President, Leverett S. Lyon, Executive Vice-President, Henry P. Seidemann, Treasurer, Darrell Hevenor Smith, Comptroller, Arnold B. Hall is Director of the Institute for Government Research, and Edwin G. Nourse, Director of the Institute of Economics. The educational activities are under the direction of the Executive Vice-President.

An Academic Costume Code

HISTORY

The history of academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required that all "Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors" of the University of Coimbra wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the fourteenth century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade "excess in apparel" and prescribed the wearing of a long gown. It is still a vexed question whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. Gowns may have been counted necessary for warmth in the unheated buildings frequented by medieval scholars. Hoods seem to have served to cover the tonsured head until they were superseded for that purpose by the skull cap. This was itself displaced by a headdress more or less like one or another of those now recognized as "academic." Both Cambridge and Oxford have made academic dress a matter of university control to the extent of even its minor details and have repeatedly issued revised regulations governing it. In the Laudian days in Oxford it was prescribed that any tailor who departed from the authorized design "even by a nail's breadth" in the making of any article of collegiate costume was to be punished by the vice-chancellor of the university.

European institutions continue to show great diversity in their specifications of academic dress. When American colleges and universities desired to adopt some suitable system of academic apparel a half century ago, it seemed to them best to agree on some definite system which all might follow. Accordingly, there was held on May 16, 1895, at Columbia University, a conference of representatives of the governing boards of various interested institutions. From that meeting came the suggestion of "a By-Law, Regulation, or Statute" for the establishment of a suitable code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. It followed in 1902 that the Regents of the University of the State of New York gave a charter to an organization named the "Intercollegiate Bureau of Academic Costume" to serve as a source of information and guidance in such matters. Of this organization the firm of Cotrell and Leonard of Albany, New York, was designated by the Regents to act as "repository." In that capacity this firm still continues to serve. In nearly every instance of the many hundreds of colleges and universities of the United States which have adopted academic dress, the standards thus prescribed have been adopted and followed, either wholly or at least in the main.

In 1932 the American Council on Education authorized the appointment of a committee "to determine whether revision and completion of the academic code adopted by the conference of the colleges and universities in 1895 is desirable at this time and, if so, to draft a revised code and present a plan for submitting the code to the consideration of the institutional members of the Council."

The committee thus authorized reviewed the situation through correspondence and conference and submitted the following code which suggests departure from present usage in only a few very minor details.

AN ACADEMIC COSTUME CODE

GOWNS

Pattern. Patterns commonly worn in the colleges and universities of this country have pointed sleeves for the Bachelor's degree, long closed sleeves (with a slit for the arm) for the Master's degree, and round, open sleeves for the Doctor's degree.

Material. Serge or worsted stuff for the Bachelor's and the same or silk for the Master's degree, silk for the Doctor's degree. As a means of adaptation to climate, the material of the gowns may vary from very light to very heavy, with linings added, if desired, provided that the material, color, and pattern follow the prescribed rules.

Color. Black in all cases.

Trimmings. None for the Bachelor's or Master's degrees. For the Doctor's degree, the gown, to be faced down the front with black velvet with three bars of the same across the sleeves, or these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive of the Faculty or subject to which the degree pertains, as indicated by the wording of the diploma, thus agreeing in color with the binding or edging of the hood.

appropriate to the particular Doctor's degree in every instance

For all academic purposes, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows

Agriculture	Maize
Arts and Letters	White
Commerce and Accountancy	Drab
Dentistry	Lilac
Economics	Copper
Engineering	Orange
Fine Arts, including Architecture	Brown
Forestry	Russett
Humanities	Crimson
Law	Purple
Library Science	Lemon
Medicine	Green
Music	Pink
Oratory	Silver Gray
Pedagogy	Light Blue
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Physical Education	Sage Green
Public Health	Salmon Pink
Science	Golden Yellow
Theology	Scarlet
Veterinary Science	Gray

In some instances American makers of academic costume have divided the velvet trimming of the Doctor's gown in such fashion as to suggest in the same garment two or more Doctor's degrees. Oxford precedent is reported to direct that only a single degree from a single institution shall ever be indicated by a single garment. It seems bad form to have an academic gown bear velvet stripes of various colors.

HOODS

Pattern. As usually followed by the colleges and universities of this country, but with the following specifications observed,

Material. The same as that of the gown, in all cases

Color. Black in all cases

Length. The length of the hood worn for the Bachelor's degree to be three feet, for the Master's degree three and one-half feet, and for the Doctor's degree four feet, while that worn for the Doctor's degree only shall have panels at the sides

Linings. The hoods to be lined with the official color or colors of the college or university conferring the degree, this to be charged with a chevron or chevrons when the institution uses more than a single color

colors for various institutions so that no tabulation has been made for this report

It has been advocated in certain quarters that the lining of the hood may indicate the institution of the wearer's official connection rather than the one which conferred the degree which the hood shows. This proposal is counted unworthy of endorsement. It involves confusion, since even the most intelligent onlooker would be unable to decipher the academic history of the wearer. Furthermore, such a system involves the changing of the lining of the hood whenever the official connection is changed, while no article of academic dress should ever need change except when it is replaced through the wearer's gaining another degree. Academic honors are not terminable with time.

Trimming. The binding or edging of the hood to be of velvet or velveteen in width two inches, three inches, and five inches for the Bachelor's, Master's and Doctor's degrees respectively, while the color should be distinctive of the subject named in the diploma given in conferment of the degree.

For reasons given in characterizing the velvet trimmings of the Doctor's gowns, no academic hood should ever have its border divided to represent more than a single degree.

CAPS

Material. Serge or worsted stuff, or, for the Doctor's degree only, velvet

Form. So-called mortar-board

Color. Black

Tassel. A long tassel to be fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap only and to lie as it will thereon, to be black except that the Doctor's cap may have its tassel of gold thread. A golden tassel is usually fastened to hang over the left front of the cap. If the tassel is fastened only at the center of the top of the cap, it may lie in any direction with equal meaning, since a passing breeze will determine its position at any time. To move the tassel so that it will hang over the left side of the cap as a feature of the conferment of the Bachelor's degree has no warrant in precedent or in common sense.

The cap is an essential part of the academic dress and is to be retained on the head throughout all academic exercises except during prayer. In particular, the cap is not to be removed at any point in the conferment of a degree.

SOME PERMISSIBLE EXCEPTIONS

1. Members of the governing body of a college or university,—and they only,—whatever their degrees may be, are counted entitled to wear

Doctor's gowns (with black velvet), but their hoods may be only those of degrees actually held by the wearers

2 At ceremonies where degrees are conferred, it is counted proper for a candidate to wear the gown in keeping with the degree to be received, but never to assume the hood of any degree until that degree actually has been bestowed

3 It has been customary for the holders of certain administrative offices in educational institutions to have their gowns trimmed with gold braid in amount corresponding to the rank of the position held. This usage may be permissible but appears to be losing favor

4 In certain colleges it is provided that only administrative officers who have the Doctor's degree may wear the gold tassel. This usage seems to be declining among the institutions. Not much is to be said in its support

5 In some large institutions there has developed a local custom of differentiating the graduates by using tassels of varying colors according to the course taken and by joining two colors in the case of combined courses. Such departures from a strict code may be permissible, but the weight of argument seems to be in favor of simplicity and uniformity in all the details of academic costume

6 While the best academic form suggests that the appropriate hood should always be worn as an essential part of the academic costume of the holder of any degree, it is customary in most institutions on Commencement Day for the hood to be dispensed with by those receiving the Bachelor's degree at that time. While this omission is to be regretted, it may be justified on the ground of the considerable expense involved in providing hoods for an entire class when some, at least, of its members may not find occasion to use them again

7 If graduating classes in secondary schools, academies, normal schools, and junior colleges are to wear caps and gowns of the pattern appropriate to the Bachelor's degree,—a custom perhaps open to question,—it is desirable that neither the cap nor the gown be black, but that both be of some distinctive light color, perhaps gray or blue. In many sections it has become customary for graduating classes of high schools and academies to wear caps and gowns of light gray, while those of many normal schools and junior colleges have adopted light blue
